Leprechaun in Lens? Snappy Subjects Run

OTTAWA (CP)—It was St. Patrick's Day and a day for the wearin' of the green on Parliament Hill Friday for three camera-shy members of the armed forces.

An officer and two non-commissioned officers, all turned out in new bottle-green, walking-out uniforms, were posing on the Hill for an RCAF photographer Friday afternoon when a Canadian Press cameraman arrived on the scene.

As Peter Gregg raised his camera and pointed it at the three servicemen there was an excited scramble as the men in green were hurried into greystones and a man in army uniform moved to block the photographer's view.

A civilian who appeared to be in charge of the RCAF picture-taking operation moved forward and told Gregg: "You can't take pictures here."

Gregg did, but all he got was a closeup of the protective soldier and a rear view of one of the green-clad figures as he pulled on his coat. That ended the picture-snapping-for-everybody.

Asked by a reporter why the RCAF was taking pictures of men in green uniforms—could it be because it was St. Patrick's Day?—the man in civvies declined to reply.

There has been widespread speculation that green would be the color for all service uniforms once the government's bill to unify the forces passes Parliament. The bill is still before a Commons committee.

A defence department spokesman said the uniforms are test uniforms, but not necessarily the ones that eventually will be used. Tests were being conducted on one basic type of uniform with several variations and will continue this summer.

Loner Steals Big Trawler

HALIFAX (CP)—A lone mariner stole a fishing trawler Friday and escaped to the high seas when a pursuing vessel was forced to turn back.

The trawler Cape Spry, apparently in the hands of only one man, continued to steam away from the coast Friday night following a daring and skilful manoeuvre in the pre-dawn darkness of Lunenburg, N.S. harbor.

A coast guard vessel, carrying RCMP officers, was forced to head back for shore when her fuel ran low. The cutter Rapid was within 25 miles of the 102-foot Cape Spry when she turned back.

The trawler was fully provisioned and her fuel tanks were full.

J. A. Y. MacDonald, Nova Scotia's deputy attorney-general, said RCMP officers had the right to pursue the vessel but this pursuit could not be carried out indefinitely. The question of RCMP jurisdiction was "pretty vague."

The provincial attorney-general's department said the legal situation was "vague."

A spokesman for the Cape Spry's owners said that if one man managed to move the vessel from her wharf and out through the harbor to the open sea it would be "the most magnificent feat ever accomplished in the history of the Maritimes fishing fleet."

Capt. Kenneth Wambach, 26-year-old skipper of the Cape Spry, said his vessel normally carried a crew of 10 and at least four were used when the ship was cleared from her wharf. The crew was asleep ashore when the vessel was stolen.

The theft recalled the 1938 theft of a British trawler, The Girl Pat, was stolen from Grimby, England, by a lone seaman who sailed her to the West Indies before giving himself up to face charges of piracy.

Landreville

House Holds Fate

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in Canadian history, a parliamentary committee has recommended the removal of a high court judge for being "unfit."

A special Commons-Senate committee recommended with "great regret" Friday that both houses of Parliament pass an address to the Governor-General for the removal of Justice Leo Landreville from the Ontario Supreme Court.

The government is expected to introduce the necessary resolutions in both houses after the Easter recess. Commons passage appears certain but opinion is more divided in the Senate.

Four of the six senators on the committee are believed to have voted against the majority recommendation at secret meetings Wednesday and Thursday night. The two other senators and all the MPs present supported the report.

The terse report said Mr. Justice Landreville "has proven himself unfit for the proper exercise of his judicial functions."

SFU Roars Yes To Boycott Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 2,000 Simon Fraser University students roared approval Friday for a plan to boycott classes Monday for an indefinite duration unless five fired teaching assistants are reinstated.

Stan Wong, president of the SFU students' council, read a copy of a letter and resolution drafted at an emergency meeting of the council Friday morning to a mass meeting of students at the noon hour.

NO CONDITIONS
The resolution asked the SFU board of governors to immediately and unconditionally reinstate the five teaching assistants. It said if the governors fail to do so, the council will call for immediate boycott action by the university's 4,200 students.

At the same time, the Simon Fraser Faculty Association urged the university's board of governors to reconsider the dismissals, which the teachers' group said should be made only on the basis of academic incompetence. The faculty association named a liaison committee to work with the student council on the matter.

Meanwhile, university presi-

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Clay L. Shaw, wealthy retired business executive, Friday was ordered to stand trial on a charge of conspiring to murder President John Kennedy. The ruling followed a four-day preliminary hearing requested by District Attorney Jim Garrison.

A three-judge criminal District Court tribunal ruled unanimously that Garrison presented sufficient evidence to warrant a trial for Shaw.

The highlight of the hearing was Perry R. Russo's testimony that he heard Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie plotting in September, 1963, to assassinate Kennedy.

FRAGILE WITH HEARSAY
The Warren commission report, which said Oswald acted alone in the assassination of Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963, was not admitted as evidence after Judge Bernard Bagert said it was "fraught with hearsay."

Shaw rugged and erect at 54, sat smoking impassively when the decision was announced. His lined face was haggard.

Judge Bagert said Garrison had presented sufficient evidence "to justify bringing into play further steps of the criminal court."

CALLED FANTASTIC

Shaw remains free on $10,000 bond. Garrison arrested him on murder conspiracy charges March 1. A decorated Second World War army major, Shaw retired in October, 1965, as managing director of the International Trade Mart here.

The decision came exactly one month after the first disclosure that Garrison was probing the Kennedy assassination. The prosecutor said he launched the investigation last October.

Shaw called Garrison's charge "fantastic," and denied knowing Oswald or having any part in a conspiracy. U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark said the FBI cleared Shaw of any link to the Kennedy assassination.

DEFENCE FERRIE
Defence Lawyer William Wegmann said in final argument Friday "the only worthy thing of Russo's testimony is that he knew David Ferrie and feared his intelligence. . . . This man (Shaw) is entitled to have the stigma removed from him. What they've put in, what VOTAW, Tex. (UPI)—Teresa Fregia was rescued alive and in apparently good condition from an abandoned water well at 3:28 a.m. EST Saturday.

VOTAW, Tex. (UPI)—A 3-year-old girl who became curious about an abandoned well in her grandmother's back yard slipped and fell into the well Friday night and skidded 28 feet before coming wedged between the narrowing walls.

The girl, Teresa Fregia, survived the fall. Drilling equipment was summoned from Houston, about 72 miles away, to aid in rescue efforts.

The girl lives with her mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Davis, in a house next door to her grandmother, Mrs. Opal Alemange.

"Just about everybody in the country is out here digging," said a neighbor of the Davises, Mrs. Evelyn Warren.

Canadian Auto Workers

Parity Pay Target

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Walter Reuther, international president of the United Auto Workers, said Friday the UAW has a mandate to obtain wage parity this year for Canadian car workers with Americans.

"The Canadian auto worker works for the same company, does the same job, builds the same cars but gets less pay than his American brother," he said.

"He is going to get the same pay—it's that simple," Reuther told cheering delegates at the UAW's 12th international skilled-trades conference. WON'T SIGN

At a news conference, Reuther said the UAW will not sign 1967 contracts that do not include a guaranteed annual income, equal pay for Canadian workers and a substantial wage increase.

George Burt, Canadian director of 105,000 UAW members, said his workers receive 40 cents to $1 an hour less than American workers.

Assembly workers in Canadian plants of General Motors receive $2.70 an hour, he said in an interview, while GM assembly workers in the U.S. get $3.10 an hour.

"But a Canadian shareholder of GM gets the same dividend as an American GM shareholder," Burt said. "There's no reason why the workers shouldn't get the same wages."

Canadian contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Nov. 15, two months after the American contracts lapse.

GOVERNMENT SIGNS

But Burt said there are "signs" the Canadian government will oppose wage parity.

He quoted Prime Minister Pearson as saying that parity for auto workers is not feasible and would seriously affect the Canadian economy.

Burt added, "Pearson would sooner ride with General Motors than walk with the workers."

First Seed Offer!

The first free seed offer of Canada's centennial year by Colonial garden columnist M. V. Chesnut is probably the most appropriate in the 12-year history of free seeds. It involves the daisy-like Early Sensation Cosmos—Canada's centennial flower and named for the Colonist's first publisher, Amor de Cosmos.

Mr. Chesnut will have the details in Sunday's Colonist.

LBJ 'Off-Cuff' Fluff: U.S. Counts Red Missiles

Spy-in-Sky Whisper Still Echoing

WASHINGTON (LAT)—President Johnson lowered his voice to a whisper in Nashville, Tenn., this week to say a few words about spy satellites and the echo has been reverberating through Washington since.

The president said that if the American space program during the past 10 years had cost 10 times more than the $30,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 invested, it would be worth it "simply for the photography."

"I don't want to be quoted on this," the president told an audience of southern educators in the cozy drawing room of Tennessee Governor Buford Ellington's mansion. He then proceeded to let the audience in on just how effective the American spy satellites have been.

"If we had no justification (for the space program) other than photography, it would be worth 10 times more," the president said.

"Before we had the photography, our guesses were way off. We were doing things that we didn't need to do."

Because of the satellites, he said, "I know how many missiles the enemy has."

Presumably the president was saying that spy satellites had been successful beyond the experts' earlier hopes in pinpointing Soviet and Chinese military installations.

The president's remarks, though made to an audience of more than 125 persons from throughout the South, were immediately put off the record by White House press secretary George Christian. There were only a handful of reporters in the audience.

The remarks have since been published. The digression about the space program came in a long, rambling, sentimental talk by the president.

Too Bad Carr Home Wasn't Given to City

BIG DEAL: It's a pity MP David Gross could not see his way clear to offering the Emily Carr home to the city as a gift.

As it is the Jaycees have paid $17,500 for the old house and have set up a foundation under the Societies Act to restore the artist's home.

The Jaycees are inviting public donations to their fund but not public participation.

The Emily Carr Foundation is in fact a subcommittee of the Jaycees. The building will house an office for the Jaycees as well as museum.

SHALOM: Nothing but nothing will convince Abe Wise that the centennial symbol isn't a Star of David standing on one leg.

He says the centennial brass pinched the Mogan David idea. How can you say the whole world isn't Jewish when even the sun is called Sol?

OAK BAY SPECIAL: A woman phoned Oak Bay police to complain a pigeon was misbehaving. The ornery bird was strutting about at the intersection of Windsor and Newport and just refused to get out of the way.

A squad car was dispatched to the scene of the crime but as so often happens the wicked bird had finally flown.

BLASTOFF: A party of 34 men from the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) will spend the weekend at Redmond, Wash., missile base on a hospitality visit.

The party spirit has been flowing for two years since the Scots first met the men of the Second Battalion (Nike Hercules) 26th Artillery Washington Army National Guard.

Needless to say there will be a pipe band made up of members of the sergeants' mess.

DON'T GO WEST? Mrs. Valerie Glover of Newport, Monmouthshire, went to the department of Immigration in Bristol, England, for an interview before coming to Canada.

She was told on no account to go west of Winnipeg as things are supposed to be in tough shape on the coast. No wonder B.C. needs its own immigration offices.

TRIPLE THREAT: There is one person who might lead the Tories from rags to riches and that's Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau. At least that's the view of Quebec Liberal Eric Kierans.

He adds it's not a strong possibility as Mr. Drapeau is busy with Expo. But Mr. Kierans is emphatic that the bustling mayor is Canada's most dynamic and efficient municipal administrator.

The mere thought of Jean Drapeau on the hustings for the Tories sends chills through the Grits.

DOUBLE ACT: Not a soul will act surprised if Ron Worley is the new deputy minister for travel but there are also indications from unofficial sources within the recreation department that magazine writer Godfrey Holloway will join Mr. Worley in the new department.

It will be interesting to see if the Civil Service Commission advises the jobs publicly.

ceived 7,500 shares of gas stock free of charge 10 years ago and sold it for $117,000. While he was mayor of Sudbury in 1956, he discussed a one-year stock option with Northern Ontario Natural Gas Co. and supported NONG's bid for a city distribution franchise.

CONFLICT DENIED

He denied under persistent questioning that these dealings were improper or illegal or constituted a conflict of interest. He said the Sudbury franchise was crucial in securing financial backing for construction of the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline and that he came under strong pressure to approve it from the federal and Ontario governments.

The 57-year-old former Liberal politician declined comment Friday. "I have not received any notification from Ottawa on what was done this morning," he said in Toronto, "and I will await the official communication before making any announcement."

CLAIMED ILLEGAL

The judge said previously he considered the Rand and parliamentary inquiries illegal on the grounds that judges cannot be investigated under the Inquiries Act and that he has not been convicted of any criminal offence.

He said Thursday night that if Parliament approves the committee recommendation, he may ask his fellow members of the Ontario Supreme Court to quash the Rand and parliamentary reports because they violate his rights under "natural Justice."

The committee report was tabled without comment in the Commons by Co-chairman Ovide Laflamme (L.-Quebec-Montmorency) and in the Senate by Senator Eric Cook (L.-Newfoundland), acting for Co-chairman Senator Daniel Lang (L.-Ontario).

Senator Sarto Fournier (L.-Quebec), a committee member and former Montreal mayor, told reporters he will oppose the report in the Senate, because he considers it unfair.

ON SUSPICION

He said the judge should not be condemned by Parliament merely on the basis of suspicions arising from his 1956-57 transactions.

"What I would like to have is facts and there are no facts. Having a deep feeling of what is British fair play, deep in my conscience I cannot condemn that man."

Senator John Hnatyshyn (PC-Saskatchewan) said in an interview he doesn't agree with Mr. Rand's assessment of the judge's character, but had not quite made up his mind whether to oppose the committee report. "I want to think it over."

TWO OTHERS

The two other committee members said to have opposed the impeachment are Senator J. M. Macdonald (PC-Nova Scotia) and Senator Leopold Langlois (L.-Quebec).

The report said Mr. Rand's acid comments that Mr. Justice Landreville is a greedy man

Sweat Glands to Blame

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes my feet to have such a terrible odor? It is not as noticeable in the summer when I wear open shoes. Is there any way to solve this problem? —MRS. G.E.

Let's analyze the sources of odor, and see if that won't help you.

We all have variations in the way our bodies behave, and this includes the activity of sweat glands. Some of us perspire heavily, others complain of dryness. For some the problem is moist palms, for others under arm perspiration, for others, the feet.

Some of the sweat glands excrete fluid which carries an odor. Others do not — but the warm moisture lets bacteria flourish, and that is a source of much of the odor. All of us have bacteria on our skin, although the amount and the type of bacteria varies greatly from person to person.

You have noticed that with open shoes, you have less odor. You can credit this to evaporation. Your feet remain drier, and that limits bacterial action.

1848 Conflict Remembered

The Canadian-Hungarian Society of Victoria will hold a general meeting at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Polish Hall, Niagara and Dock, to commemorate the 1848 War of Independence.

With all that in mind, you will see why the following measures help reduce foot odor:

● Scrupulous cleaning. Feet should be washed daily. Just standing in the shower, or even taking a bath, won't clear away stray bacteria. Work up a good soapy lather on your feet. A germicidal soap probably will help.

● Dust feet and shoes with foot powder, which has both a drying and deodorizing effect.

● You might well try using some of the standard preparations for underarm perspiration. They are astringent and tend to suppress perspiration and odor.

● Soaking the feet in a three to five per cent solution of formalin is effective. It serves as an astringent which toughens the skin as well as having an antiseptic action. It might be irritating, however.

● Blotters soaked in this formalin solution might be placed in the shoes you are not wearing.

● Having enough shoes so that they can dry out thoroughly between wearings is also helpful.

If these simple measures do not do the job, see a skin specialist for some more specific treatment. Some form of fungus or yeast organisms on and in the skin may be complicating your problem.

Cells Still Holding German Prisoners

BONN (AP)—The West German Red Cross says nine Communist and western nations still are holding 224 German prisoners nearly 21 years after the Nazi collapse. However, all are convicted criminals as well as prisoners of war and all are held in regular civil jails. No war prisoner camps exist any more, the Red Cross said.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary-General Thant confirmed Friday he is engaged in a Vietnam peace effort, working as a private individual through quiet, unpublicized channels. Guerrillas Fire Into TV Crowd

SAIGON (UPI) — Guerrillas fired into a crowd of South Vietnamese villagers Friday night as they were watching a television program warning civilians to be on the alert for Viet Cong terror attacks. The fusillade killed one policeman and wounded nine women and children. A South Vietnamese government spokesman said the guerrillas opened up with small arms fire in the village of Binh Chanh about 12 miles southwest of Saigon. The villagers had assembled to watch a television set furnished by the U.S. as part of the operation of a joint Vietnamese-American network established several months ago. Most villages have only one television set and evening viewing has become the main social function in many areas.

Northerners Digging In Against Air Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese are shooting harder and digging more and more underground depots in an effort to protect their war supplies from the intensified American air offensive. Rear Admiral David C. Richardson said Friday. Protected storage of the enemy's high-priority items such as fuel and ammunition was reported to have "picked up a great deal."

Richardson directs the U.S. navy carrier plane strikes against North Vietnam, carried out in co-operation with land-based U.S. air force and marine squadrons. Together they executed 78 missions in rough weather Thursday. "The quantities of flak our pilots are getting are heavier than ever — about one-third heavier than last summer would be my guess," Richardson told Associated Press correspondent Robert Tuckman in an interview aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk.

Army Grip on China Tightest Since '49

HONG KONG (UPI) — The Chinese army was reported Friday to be exercising its most extensive control since the Communists seized power on the mainland 17 years ago. Diplomatic sources said the liberation army had taken over most of China's major cities and the shattering effects of Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution. They said the Mao purges had destroyed much of the Communist Party apparatus and told of bitter feuding between party and military leaders. Japanese correspondents in Peking said party and army officials were sharply divided over how to handle the wide-spread public opposition to Mao's revolution. They reported stormy meetings between the central committee of the party and the central military committee. Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Friday the army had become the main punitive organ of the "new revolutionary system" in China. It reported army control of agriculture, industry, schools, the press, public security organs, radio, post and telegraph, transport and trade. It said military control commissions had been established in the capital of Peking, in the major southern city of Canton and in Shanghai, China's most populous city. A report prepared by diplo-

Republic of Canada?

IT WILL be interesting to note the degree of importance the federal government attaches to recent suggestions put forward by two Quebec politicians relating to the appointment of a new governor-general.

This week M. Maurice Allard, independent MP for Sherbrooke, told the House that he thought it advisable that the status of the vice-regal post be studied before a successor to the late Governor-General Vanier is named.

He said the committee of officials now studying proposals to revise the BNA Act should examine the position of governor-general in the light of Canada's political evolution.

Last week Mr. Eric Kierans, former Quebec cabinet minister and now president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, proposed that no successor be named to allow Canadians to consider the advisability of abolishing the vice-regal post.

A few years ago such views would have been considered preposterous and anybody expressing them publicly would have been laughed out of the Canadian political arena.

Yet today the national political climate set by the present government begs these very questions to be asked. The actions taken and the attitudes adopted by the Liberal administration for the past three years have given the exponents of such opinions every right to believe that Ottawa will lend them a fair and considerably sympathetic ear.

Obviously these people have been greatly encouraged by the removal of any vestige of the Union Jack from our national flag, the postal department's attempt to remove the crown and take out the word "Royal" from our mail bags and postal vehicles, the renaming of naval shore establishments as CFBs to eliminate the use of "Royal" or "Her Majesty's," and the soon-to-be-executed armed services unification order which will replace the identification Royal Canadian Air Force with Canadian Forces (Air) and Royal Canadian Navy with Canadian Forces (Sea) or some such thing.

And now—and it is far from being the last straw yet—serious consideration is being given to re-writing the words of God Save the Queen for use in Canada.

How much more encouragement can the Liberal government give those who wish to see the country become a republic?

Shared Benefits

FEDERAL TRANSPORT Minister Jack Pickersgill responded rather threateningly to the B.C. government's move to set up a provincial harbor board, primarily to help develop a modern, bulk-loading, "super ship" port at Roberts Bank near Tsawwassen. Harbor facilities, said Mr. Pickersgill, are a vital national asset, "which must and will be developed in the interest of Canada as a whole by the national government which has the exclusive constitutional responsibility."

Whether or not Ottawa's responsibility for harbors is truly exclusive is something for constitutional lawyers to debate. But it now remains in any case for Mr. Pickersgill to explain why it would not be in the national interest for more and better accommodation to be built on the West Coast to take advantage of the growing super-ship traffic, and sooner than his administration seems to be ready to undertake the development. It remains for him also to show why it would not be in the national interest to share the responsibility with a province willing to put millions of dollars of its own money into the endeavor, in co-operation with Ottawa and with industry. (Mr. Robert Bonner, as provincial commercial transport minister, has stated that B.C. intends to hold talks with the federal authorities and some private concerns.)

Without such explanations, and particularly if Ottawa were to take steps to disallow the B.C. legislation strictly on a jurisdictional basis, Mr. Pickersgill could only appear to be taking a dog-in-the-manger attitude, and with scant consideration for the fact that the benefit of economic expansion in B.C. is shared by all Canadians.

Worse Than Ever

ACCORDING to the federal revenue department Canadians made more than one million errors in their income tax returns last year. This isn't surprising, and the number is likely to be even greater with the returns currently being compiled for 1966 income.

Repeatedly we are told that the form is being simplified, but instead it grows more confusing than ever. There are so many dos and don'ts, so many allowances, deductions, additions, debts and credits, to be taken into consideration that filling up a return becomes for many people a major exercise in paperwork.

And those individuals not accustomed to paperwork, and these include a large section of the population, must find an income tax form like a Chinese puzzle. Even for more sophisticated taxpayers complying with it is no simple matter.

For the current year, the tax for 1966 income, it is true there is an instruction sheet designed to guide the taxpayer as he calculates what he is due to pay, but this has only made the task more difficult than ever. The pros and cons involved are enough to make the head reel.

Probably the department cannot be faulted since the tax structure is so complicated it compels the variety of factors that lead eventually, after much head scratching and arithmetic, to the final tax figure. But by the same token those who make mistakes cannot be faulted either.

There is no hint that of the million errors last year any were deliberate in order to reduce the amount due. There would be some in this category, possibly, but the large bulk of taxpayers is strictly honest in its returns. A number of the errors, also, would be to the taxpayer's disadvantage.

The revenue department says it costs $5 to re-do a return correctly. That will be incapable as long as the tax structure remains so complex. If the latter could be simplified there would be fewer mistakes made on income tax returns.

The Six and the Seven

Unified Europe a Far-Off Dream

By ROLAND HUNTFORD from Stockholm

THE stock question of Western European politics today is how long the continent remains at six and seven—divided between the six Common Market countries and the seven members of the European Free Trade Association. After the meeting of EFTA ministers in Stockholm earlier this month, the division continues and unification remains a far-off dream.

The conference resolved itself into a play of waiting for Mr. George Brown, the British foreign secretary. He came, half-way through the session, to report on British soundings for entry into the Common Market. His report was the only matter of substance now concerning EFTA, for upon British actions depends its future.

Mr. Brown protested British earnestness in entering the Common Market, but there were many delegates, particularly among the smaller countries who thought that possibly "the gentleman doth protest too much."

Private soundings by some EFTA members, particularly Switzerland and Denmark, suggested that France had not basically altered her opposition to British Common Market membership since she vetoed the last application in 1963. The only difference seemed to be that General de Gaulle was looking for subtler ways of saying "No."

There was also an impression that for all the encouraging noises made in the Common Market capitals to Mr. Wilson and Mr. Brown on their recent visits, there was a fundamental reluctance to alter arrangements which have been hard bargained by the Six. The Common Market has not found its development all easy going; the compromise on agricultural policy has been dearly bought, and none of the members particularly wants to negotiate all over again. The implication is that even those countries, like Holland, Belgium and Italy, which have been most definite in saying that they want Britain in the Common Market, may not in fact help so very much when a definite application is made.

EFTA continues then, very much a misbegotten child. It was established in 1960 by the spirit of Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Austria and Portugal, which had been excluded from the Common Market at its foundation. Finland joined later as an associate member.

The purpose of EFTA was proclaimed as a temporary binding together of outsiders for mutual help and in order to negotiate from strength for entry into the Common Market at a later date.

But EFTA now seems to have taken on at least a semi-permanent character. All tariffs have been abolished within the organization, so that free trade is now a fact. Many officials give the impression that they have little idea where the consummation of the original idea has been something of an anti-climax.

In order to provide a motive for future action, there has been some talk here of what is generally called "further operation." But it is mainly concerned with marginal matters, such as co-ordination of patent laws, so that a patent in one EFTA country would have force in all the others without further application being necessary. This is called "parallel development," the word "parallel" referring to similar actions within the Common Market. The purpose is to ensure that, as far as possible, developments within WFTA resemble those within the Common Market, so that if and when a fusion takes place the transition can be as painless as possible.

But these are most definitely marginal matters. In essential fields, such as agriculture and particularly political development, the two European blocs are worlds apart. EFTA is no more than a loose association for free trade; the Common Market is a closely-knit union with free movement of capital and labor, and high ambitions in political integration.

At least the Common Market countries (France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg) have certain ambitions in common: all that unites EFTA is exclusion from the Common Market. Britain, Portugal, Norway and Denmark are in NATO. Austria, Switzerland, Sweden and Finland are neutral. Denmark is the keenest to enter the Common Market because of her dependence on West German markets for agricultural products and the high external tariffs of the Common Market; Britain, the most capable of approaching the Six, but the Seven contain all shades of

An End to Violence

'Society Must Say, This We Will Not Tolerate'

THOSE who use the fashionable explanations for acts of violence—domineering or inadequate mothers, pent-up aggressive instincts, a revolt against early toilet training—do not know the facts of life in America today," said Dr. Fred Wertham, seated at his desk in his comfortable Gramercy Park apartment in New York.

"They try to reduce ugly social facts to the level of intriguing individual psychological events, instead of coping with the real causes, such as poverty, failure to catch criminals, failure to use the law for education, unwise legislation, glorification or exploitation of crime and violence in comic books, TV shows and toys."

Dr. Wertham's credentials to speak on the psychology of violence are impressive. Possibly the only living American psychiatrist who knew personally Kraepelin, Bleuler, Adolph Kretschmer, Pavlov, Freud, Jung, Adler, Meyer, August Forel, Ernest Jones, and William Alanson White, Dr. Wertham became interested in the problem of violence when he first studied psychiatry, and he began to investigate it in earnest when, as assistant director of the Johns Hopkins psychiatric outpatient clinic, he saw plenty of its effects.

Later at the request of Clarence Darrow, a personal friend, he examined and studied a number of people accused of crimes. He founded in Harlem the Lafargue Clinic in Harlem. He directed the Quaker Emergency Service Readjustment Center for sex offenders in New York, and the New York Supreme Court's first psychiatric clinic for convicted felons. He was the sole psychiatric consultant to the Kefauver Senate Subcommittee for the Study of Organized Crime. Responsible for first calling public attention to the influence of crime comics in breeding violence (Seduction of the Innocent, 1954), Dr. Wertham has recently created controversy again with a new book, A Sign for Cain—An Exploration of Human Violence, published by Macmillan just after last summer's rash of mass murders, riots, and rapes.

Was it just coincidence that so many incidents happened in so short a time?

His voice strong with conviction, Dr. Wertham set forth his thesis: "No act of violence is ever an isolated fact. It can never be explained entirely by the psychology of the individual who committed the act, never mind what he is or what he has done. The impulse is social, but the rationalization is social. When the environment tolerates violence, violent behavior is apt to happen, and then more violence, spreading like a contagious disease. The murder of eight nurses in Chicago last July 14, for example, was followed two weeks later by the Texas murders—committed by a man who had been having impulses to kill people for some time but, significantly, hadn't acted them out before. Three days later a woman in San Francisco killed five members of her family. Within six weeks of July 14, 46 people were killed in mass murders. I would state it as a law that if any act of violence is not properly resolved it will be repeated."

I asked what he meant by the term "properly resolved."

"That depends on the concrete circumstances. If you have a war, it is properly resolved by a proper, humane, and just peace. Obviously the Second World War resulted in no real peace at all—not even a peace treaty. Now, when you talk about murder, or other crimes, the proper resolution for society to make clear what it wants."

"Society must say, 'No, this we will not tolerate.' We must say it absolutely clearly. Justice must be done, it must be seen, in an open courtroom. This is not revenge, ortribution, of course. Punishment is a language. It says that society will hold people accountable for their acts."

"Unfortunately, many people today who think that society mustn't punish criminals and delinquents—we must understand them and turn them over to the psychiatrist. Well, interesting philosophical statements as established facts, he'd be the first one to say that violence should be studied mind, and that it wanted to keep all the options open until the last possible moment. There is one clear difference between Britain's present manoeuvres and the last application in 1962. Then, the United States was interested in Britain joining the Market and exerted pressure in that direction; now there is little American interest in the matter. Some delegates have the idea that the British soundings have been in the nature of shadow boxing, for a variety of reasons, mainly domestic. There may well be actions that are like lurid rockets against a night sky. And they endure for just about as long.

Opinion in the United States can discount the Garrison sensations. After all, district attorneys, who are fairly far down in the law-enforcement hierarchy, have political ambitions. But for opinion overseas Garrison gives a gloss of officialdom to the belief that conspirators must advance. Moreover, so long as the headlines blossom Garrison will go on with one manoeuvre after another.

It may be that all this is inevitable. After Lincoln's assassination tales of plotters in high places persisted for many years. But no evidence was unearthed to incriminate anyone other than the half-dressed hatters around the assassin John Wilkes Booth. This was America's own personal and

(OFPA-Copyright)

Mr. Wilson, so these suspicions run, wants to appear to have tried for Common Market membership, in order to impress voters at home and satisfy British Common Market supporters. It is said that some EFTA governments have at least made contingency plans on this assumption, so that EFTA, however lame, may be expected to continue for some time to come. The division of Europe persists: that seems to be the message of the EFTA meetings in Stockholm—the city where it was founded.

(OFPA-Copyright)

clinically, because he believed in the clinical method."

"Do you have any idea how many cases you yourself have studied?"

"I've examined several hundreds of criminals and delinquents, and have followed up most of these for a short time—a few months, a year. Real follow-up is a different thing, but there are people I've followed for 15, even 30 years, in and out of institutions and jails and jobs. None of my ideas comes out of the air or from my own head. They're based on painstaking, time-consuming work. I may spend hours and hours in a jail cell listening to a man who killed a girl. Psychoanalysis is a very useful method of study, of course. In addition, I use many tests. Then I often personally investigate how the person lives, go to the place he talks about, speak to the neighbors, friends, relatives, clergymen, teachers. This is how we come to really know the things that made a person commit a crime. We can't find out with questionnaires and statistics. You know, of course, that the conclusion I arrived at by clinical studies is that violence is not inbred—but is trained in—has been confirmed by animal studies."

I nodded, and moved on to my next question. "Do you feel that the amount of violence really is increasing, or is it—some people say it is—just a matter of how the records are kept?"

"There's a rising curve of violence, without question. The number of rapes by young people has gone up tremendously. Brutality has increased—the battered baby syndrome, for example. Younger and younger people commit murder. A boy of 12 throws a girl from a roof and it's scarcely newsworthy because there's already so much brutality, cruelty, torture in our newspapers, our literature, movies and TV."

Why is violence increasing? There are many different factors. Partly because too many people and organizations have treated interests that propagate it, according to Dr. Wertham. "On one TV station in one week I counted 234 killings and attempted killings, most of them during hours children watch. When I first read a paper at the Academy of Medicine in 1948—on the influence of the mass media on children's behavior, I didn't realize that the crime comics, the toy manufacturers, the TV people, and the movie producers would land on me like a ton of bricks. They had profiles at stake.

"I've had more abuse for advocating disarmament in the nursery than for advocating it in atomic arsenals. You're more popular if you blame an act of violence on a single frustrating experience in childhood or on biological instincts, because that way you don't interfere with anyone's business. No one wants to believe that in effect we have a school for violence that most of our children attend regularly. Juvenile violence is learned behavior."

"But even the people with no axe to grind don't want to accept this because it makes them uncomfortable. They might feel compelled to DO something."

Dr. Wertham swung his chair around to face me squarely. "The belief in the eternalness of the human drive to destruction is essentially the expression of our feeling of helplessness in the face of the pressures of a complex society. That's how I see it, as a psychiatrist. As a psychiatrist I also believe man is not at the mercy of either his own instincts or of social forces. Psychiatrists should play a big role in the long hard job of abolishing violence. After all, it is our job to change people's feelings and behavior."

"You believe that people CAN change," I said. "Do you believe that we WILL?"

"Yes, I do. You know, The New York Times has called me an innocent, and now my friends call me that. Because I can't accept, personally, that we can learn to orbit men around the earth and not be able to learn to handle our social problems and abolish violence. I'm not at all pessimistic. But we cannot continue to exploit violence for entertainment or for profit and at the same time try to fight it. We have to learn to say No to certain things. We HAVE to say No."

Washington Calling

A Dubious Cause

By MARCUS CHILDS

ON his recent trip to four South American countries—Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador and Colombia—Chief Justice Earl Warren was startled to find that at the press conferences he held in each country only one subject was raised—the Warren Commission report on President Kennedy's assassination.

Had the commission really considered all the evidence? Shouldn't the inquiry be reopened in view of charges of a conspiracy involving persons other than Lee Harvey Oswald? The questions came hot and heavy at each stop.

At one of his most-crowded conferences, with some 50 reporters bearing down on the assassination theme, the chief justice got in a question of his own. How many of those present, he asked, had read the Warren Report? Two hands were raised.

"How many of you have examined the 26 volumes of evidence on which the report was based?" No hand was raised.

"I know these volumes are available to you," the chief justice said, "because I saw it myself that the full set was sent to the principal library in every capital of the world."

This is a sad commentary, not so much on world opinion as on those in the United States who have exploited the Kennedy tragedy for profit. The exploiters have fed the conspiracy theory which opinion abroad has been only too eager to seize on. Particularly in the Communist countries it has been a rich propaganda mine—unstable, lawless America with right-wing conspirators powerful enough to plot against the life of a president. Throw in a dash of the CIA and you have a mixture brewed at home that could hardly be more self-destructive.

The latest manifestation comes in the antics of New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison. He has been making the headlines with weird tales of plot and counterplot and constant promises of new sensational revelations of new secrets against a night sky. And they endure for just about as long.

Opinion in the United States can discount the Garrison sensations. After all, district attorneys, who are fairly far down in the law-enforcement hierarchy, have political ambitions. But for opinion overseas Garrison gives a gloss of officialdom to the belief that conspirators must advance. Moreover, so long as the headlines blossom Garrison will go on with one manoeuvre after another.

It may be that all this is inevitable. After Lincoln's assassination tales of plotters in high places persisted for many years. But no evidence was unearthed to incriminate anyone other than the half-dressed hatters around the assassin John Wilkes Booth. This was America's own personal and family presumption as were the trials and tribulations of that other Johnson, Andrew, who inherited the presidency upon Lincoln's death in 1953.

The United States was still regarded as a new, fledgling nation that had managed to survive a terrible civil war. Today the United States is a world power with every move, every whisper, communicated to the ends of the earth. That is why the attack on the credibility of the Warren Report has such consequences and why it must seem at times a willful essay in self-destruction.

To believe that there were plotters in a conspiracy to murder the president and to believe further that another assassin or assassins fired shots is to believe that the principal law-enforcement agencies in the United States—the FBI, the Secret Service—are, to say the least, incompetent. Or for those who prefer the dark conspiratorial side, any evidence casting doubt on the Warren Commission findings was obviously suppressed.

When President Johnson first sent an emissary to the chief justice shortly after the Kennedy assassination, the emissary was sent to ask him to head a commission of inquiry. The answer was a firm no. Warren felt strongly that the court should not be involved in controversies outside the jurisdiction of the chief justice. He cited chapter and verse on the harm such involvement had caused in the past. Later that same day Johnson asked Warren to come to the White House. He solemnly invoked the patriotism of the chief justice, who, as the president himself, had worn the uniform of his country in the Second World War. With this appeal Warren agreed to be chairman of the commission of inquiry.

The Warren Report can be faulted. The commission might have taken longer. The commission members, all of them busy at other jobs, should perhaps have devoted more time to the hearings. There are suppositions—holes in the testimony—frankly acknowledged in view of the fact that Oswald was dead. But, until solid evidence contradicting the Warren findings comes to light, the exploiters who would discredit the report serve a dubious cause.

No Political Ties

Colonist PROFILES

By GORDE HUNTER

Hugh Roulston Stephen, mayor of Victoria, isn't likely to be mistaken for a politician.

This quiet, soft-spoken native of Guildford, Eng., has nothing of the accepted caricature of the politician about him. This is exactly the way he feels it should be at the civic level of government.

"When I entered civic politics I severed all political ties," Mayor Stephen says. "I don't feel politics are necessary in civic government—in fact, more of a handicap. You must have your hands clean when dealing with various levels of government."

For the record, he was a Liberal before entering the civic field, but since that time he has not attended a political meeting.

The Stephen story, insofar as Victoria is concerned, started back in 1938 when his father decided to emigrate from London where he was in the weekly newspaper business. Constant reading of geographical journals had narrowed the choice of a new home to Tasmania or Victoria. Victoria won out, and Hugh Stephen has conducted and unabashed love affair with the place ever since.

He served in the Canadian Army during the last big shooting affair, and, after taking a Japanese language course in Vancouver, joined the British forces in Southeast Asia as a member of the physiological warfare team.

"You know," Mayor Stephen adds, "propaganda leaflets and all that sort of thing."

Returning here in 1945, he tried to get into the newspaper field — as an owner, not a reporter — and failing this, bought the New Method Laundry. This was his business until three years ago when he sold out to enter the civic arena.

It has been stated that smaller centres like Victoria cannot afford to pay a mayor the money the job is worth and that a man taking the mayor's chair must be prepared to dip into his own personal funds to make ends meet. Mayor Stephen does not subscribe to the theory.

"The pay is $10,000 a year and I think a man can do it all right," he states, "but expenses can get heavy. Actually, the city must pay good salaries in order to get the proper people. Too many good people are eliminated if the pay isn't enough."

Mayor Stephen is already on record as favoring a tough line in dealing with juvenile delinquency. Does he figure the problem is serious in Victoria?

"Statistics tell me Victoria has a high rate of juvenile delinquency," he answered. "However, I personally do not think it is any worse than any other city of this size."

"We will deal with it in whatever way we have to. We will pass new bylaws if necessary and, of course, we also hope to take remedial measures. The youngsters obviously have too much time on their hands — no place to go, nothing to do. We must try to channel them into good programs."

The mayor added, however, the citizens of Victoria must be protected from all forms of juvenile hoodlums.

"We must have law and order. You can have a beautiful city with fine buildings, but if a citizen can't walk down the streets at night, it isn't any good."

And speaking of law and the enforcement of it, Mayor Stephen had nothing but praise of Police Chief John Gregory.

"I have absolute and implicit faith in our chief," he said. "He is the very model of what a police chief should be — he is creating what will be one of the finest police forces anywhere."

Asked what he saw for the future of Victoria, he pointed out the population centre of the city happens to be in the Mayfair shopping centre and the population shift is toward the Royal Oak area.

"So we must do everything we can to make Victoria the magnet. We must have good access roads to make it easy for them to come and go. We must have good parking facilities and above all, we must give them something to come here for."

Hugh Stephen, relatively new to the mayor's chair, finds the days do not contain enough hours. He's at his desk before nine in the morning, rarely gets away before six in the evening.

Then there are at least two or three nights a week taken up with official functions. On the free evenings he reads for relaxation. A member of the Uplands Golf Club since 1946, he manages — most of the time — to get in his weekly Saturday afternoon round.

It is far too early to form any solid opinions as to Hugh Stephen's ability as mayor of Victoria, but if time, effort and diligence count for anything, he's rapidly building up points that will stand him in good stead when solid opinions can be formed.

MP's New Justice Bill:

Criminals' Records Should Be Erased

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The concept that a man's criminal record follows him to the grave is about to be challenged in the Commons' committee on justice and legal affairs.

The challenge is in the form of a bill from Liberal Donald Tolmie of Welland, a backbencher with a consuming interest in reforming the judicial and penal systems.

The bill has two basic purposes:

● "To erase criminal records incurred by minors, who upon reaching their majority (usually age 21) have become respectable members of society."

● "To relieve adults who have paid their debt to society and taken their place as law-abiding citizens, from the continuing stigma and harassment of past criminal records."

It provides that if an adult has not been convicted of a crime for 12 years after a first offence, his record would be destroyed and he would be "deemed not to have committed the offence for which he was convicted."

The bill hasn't a chance of being approved in that form. But there are growing signs from both the government and the opposition that there will be definite support for the principle Mr. Tolmie is trying to establish.

"Obviously it is illogical and completely unjust to add to his punishment, which a competent court decided upon, by saddling him with a record in perpetuity and hounding and harassing him to his dying day," Mr. Tolmie contends.

"The gnawing worry and potential disgrace caused by an existing record as well as the real deprivation of free travel and job opportunities, most certainly inhibits a true and lasting rehabilitation."

The cruelty of the present system was given national publicity last January when 26-year-old Murray Taft was elected to a municipal council. Unfortunately he had been convicted of joy-riding when he was 17. Under provincial law he was forced to give up his post. The national parole board is still investigating the case for Solicitor-General Larry Fennell.

Mr. Fennell is the key minister involved in the discussion of the bill. He paved the way for the subject matter being sent to the committee, and he will appear himself to speak on it. His views were outlined in an important speech to the John Howard Society.

"The idea is gaining strength that when a man has completed a term of imprisonment and has satisfied his debt to society, there should be safeguards against his criminal record being used against him."

"Like many other problems in the administration of justice, this one can be solved easier in theory than in practice. The mechanics by which this ideal might be implemented have not yet been satisfactorily resolved."

He added that to implement such a program amendments to the Identification of Criminals Act would be necessary. "In the result, inquiries from whatever source, as to the past records of pardoned persons would be answered in the same manner as inquiries about persons without convictions."

"It could be done with the simple statement that 'a search of the records pursuant to the Identification of Criminals Act shows no criminal record,'" he said.

"Certainly relief ought to be given to the offender who has clearly demonstrated his rehabilitation," he said.

'Something Peculiar'Russian Spaceship
May Be Practising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A big, new spaceship Russia put in orbit a week ago may be rehearsing for some such spectacular as sending several cosmonauts on a space station missions or on flights around the moon, U.S. authorities speculated Friday.

One official said there "certainly is something peculiar" about Cosmos 146, which a London newspaper described as possibly the largest spacecraft ever flown.

Officials said that extra payload could be part of a big spaceship combination similar to the three-unit U.S. Apollo craft. Or it could be more efficient upper-stage Russia is believed to be developing.

Another oddity was the low point of the orbit of Cosmos 146, at 118 miles well below the typical 130-mile perigee of Cosmos reconnaissance craft and within the range of previous manned flights.

Military and space officials said there was no truth to a report that the spaceship had broken in low.

It may well be the launch exactly a week ago was to test an improved new upper stage for the biggest and most

One

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government launched the 148th satellite in its unmanned Cosmos series Friday. The government said its purpose is scientific investigation.

Up to last Friday, the best it had done was to orbit a 21,000-ton proton spaceship.

'Brat Patrol' Placates Teachers

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking teachers went back to their classrooms in a Bronx junior high school Friday with a promise from the board of education that a "brat patrol" would be set up to handle violent pupils.

The 79 teachers, who had submitted their resignations last Tuesday in protest of a growing wave of assaults and boisterousness in classrooms, voted to give a trial run to a new plan for improving present school disciplinary procedures.

The teachers had charged that they were subjected to physical and verbal abuse by pupils; and that the school, with its 2,000 pupils, needed more than the 127 teachers it was allotted.

Thieves Grab $130 From Mail Centre

Two thieves dipped into the cash drawer of the Fairfield Plaza sub post office about 10:45 a.m. Friday and took $130 while the postmaster was having a coffee break.

Two men described as being in their early 20s entered the store while postmaster John Pinch and his wife were having a cup of coffee and, after looking at some magazines, walked to the back of the premises.

The postmaster said he was suspicious of the couple and kept an eye on them, but it was not until after they left that the theft was discovered.

INCH SHORTER

One of the men, Mr. Pinch said, was about six feet tall, wore a three-quarter-length blue coat and had dark hair and a pale face. The other man was about an inch shorter and had brown hair.

A thief broke into a Saanich home at 1925 Grandview over-night Thursday and took about $125 in cash and an undetermined number of stamps.

Hepatitis Strikes Family

Three cases of hepatitis have been reported in the Sparrow Road area of Saanich in the last week—all of them in the same family.

The three persons involved are all students at Prospect Lake School.

Senior medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said the family had its own well on the property and its own septic tank.

He said the cases were in no way connected with the Prospect Lake water supply.

General Was in Sicily

Canada's Gen. Andrew McNaughton went to Sicily in July, 1943, says Victoria's Maj. Harry Smith, and with that statement he shoots down a theory handed down since the war.

The wartime feud between Gen. McNaughton and Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery, it has been stated, started with Montgomery's refusal to allow the late general to go to Sicily.

At that time, McNaughton was head of the Canadian Army overseas, and he wanted to see the 1st Canadian Division in action in Sicily.

In his own memoirs, Montgomery said that he had barred the general's way. He did this so that the young and relatively inexperienced Canadian divisional commander, Guy Simonds could be left alone.

In Montgomery's view, it seemed that McNaughton would never forgive him.

A new book, The Montgomery Legend, by Reginald W. Thompson, also says Montgomery blocked a visit by McNaughton.

However, a photograph belonging to Maj. Smith, 2621 Cedar Hill Road, explodes the theory. It shows McNaughton in Sicily in July, 1943.

"What's been presented is interesting. It's provoking. It is not proof."

ALLEGED PLOT

Assistant District Attorney James Alcock replied: "The state of Louisiana has put forth before the court enough evidence to tip the scales, enough evidence to hold this man."

Russo, 25-year-old insurance salesman, told the court that he was present in Ferrie's New Orleans apartment in mid-September, 1963, and heard Oswald, Shaw and Ferrie plotting to assassinate the president.

DEAD IN BED

Shaw is the only one of the three alleged conspirators still alive. Oswald was killed by Jack Ruby two days after the assassination. Ferrie was found dead in bed last Feb. 22. The coroner ruled death resulted from natural causes.

Russo said he knew Oswald as Leon Oswald and Shaw as Clem Bertrand.

Garrison still must file a bill of information — the formal charge — before an actual trial can be held. Garrison had no comment after the ruling.

IDENTITIES MEN

The final prosecution witness Friday was a man who said he saw two men — whom he now can identify as Oswald and Shaw — in conversation near 1963.

Vernon Bundy, 29, who said he was once a heroin addict, walked over to Shaw in court, put his hand over Shaw's head and identified him as the man he saw with Oswald at the lakefront.

Bundy testified on the fourth day of a preliminary hearing to decide whether Shaw, 34, should go on trial on charges of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy in 1963. Shaw has denied the charges.

Bundy said the Lake Pontchartrain incident occurred in June or July, 1963. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Tex., in November that year.

Bundy said one of the men he saw was young, the other much older. He said he heard the "young guy" ask the older man plaintively:

"What am I going to tell her?"

Bundy said the older man replied: "Don't worry about it. I told you I was going to take care of her."

The witness then said the older man handed over "a roll of money or it appeared to be."

which can be followed and that they will decide against any boycott Monday," said Dr. McTaggart-Cowan.

The teaching assistants — John Edmond, Christopher Huxley, Martin Loney, Geoff Mercer and Phil Stanworth — were fired following demonstrations earlier this week at Templeton High School.

TWO CHARGES

Mr. Loney, 23, faces two charges of creating a disturbance at the school. Two SFU students were also arrested. The students said they were protesting the suspension of Grade 12 student Peter Haines, 17.

The youth was suspended March 3 after he handed out 25 copies of a 10-page publication criticizing a teacher's views on poetry and the SFU students said they regarded the incident as a breach of freedom of speech.

CLOSED MEETING

At the same time as the student rally at the campus, SFU department heads were huddled in a closed meeting with Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan, university president.

They were believed to be discussing the resignation of Professor T. B. Bottomore as dean of arts. Prof. Bottomore said in a prepared statement he took the step "to disassociate myself entirely from the action of the board of governors." He said he would continue as professor and head of the department of political science, sociology and anthropology.

New Man For O'Neal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fred Corley of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphate and Paper Mill Workers Friday was named to the executive of the British Columbia Federation of Labor.

Mr. Corley replaces Pat O'Neal, western regional organizer of the international, who resigned his federation seat following statements by some unions that he should resign because of the bugging of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention last fall.

When the defence claimed Bundy's testimony was hearsay, Garrison asked Bundy to identify two pictures.

Much of Friday's session of the hearing dealt exhaustively with hypnosis. Medical experts testified that hypnosis can bring out both fact and fantasy. They said, however, that under good conditions an expert practitioner can detect fantasy or faking.

The techniques of hypnosis became relevant after Russo, Garrison's major witness against Shaw, testified he was hypnotized three times during interrogation by the prosecutor's staff.

A doctor testified that he gave Russo a post-hypnotic suggestion to tell the truth. Dr. Esmond Fatter, a New Orleans physician associated with the corner's office and a member of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis, was qualified as an expert witness by the court. He testified that he met Russo in the corner's office March 1.

Dr. Fatter said he put Russo in a hypnotic trance after talking to him about his background. When Assistant District Attorney Alvin Osier asked Dr. Fatter whether he had questioned Russo about events in September, 1963 — when Russo said he heard the conspiracy Counsel F. Irving Dymond objected.

Judge Matthew Branniff, one of the three judges, said that the defence lawyers "by inference" had convinced some persons that Russo was under hypnosis or a post-hypnotic suggestion.

Dr. Fatter, under cross-examination, was asked by the defence whether Russo was under hypnosis when he testified. He replied: "Did you give Russo a post-hypnotic suggestion?"

A. "Yes, my suggestion to Russo was to present the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth and to be calm, cool and collected."

Jobless Up 40,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Marchand Friday blamed declines in car purchases and house building and "an unusually severe winter" for the rise in unemployment.

He said unemployment was up about 40,000 in February over the month a year ago.

New Mill

Columbia Barging To Rise

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — The start of barge service on the lower Columbia River is seen in the leasing here of warehouse space by Waterway Terminals Corp., a subsidiary of Crown-Zellerbach Corp.

C. E. Hodge, port manager, said another Crown-Zellerbach subsidiary, Western Transportation, had joined with the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railway in a joint rate on canned goods shipped between Astoria and Longview.

Paper pulp from B.C. will be barged up-river to the new Crown-Zellerbach mill at Wauna, Ore., and to Camas, Wash., and West Linn, Ore., plants he said. Hodge said the finished newspaper would be barged to Astoria for transfer to ocean-going barges.

Merger Must Wait

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson Friday side-tracked — at least temporarily — his controversial proposal to merge the departments of commerce and labor.

In a message to Congress, Johnson said he was submitting the proposal to his committee on labor-management policy for a study. He said he wanted the committee to "assure that a free flow of communications will be maintained between the government and the business and labor communities" under the merger.

Johnson said he still thought the merger was a good idea, but he would await the committee's advice before taking further action.

For Personal Things

Senator Spent It And Openly, Too

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd testified Friday he openly spent some $150,000 in political contributions to pay personal bills. He denied any trickery and called his main accuser a liar.

Testifying before the senate ethics committee, Dodd said his use of testimonial contributions was common knowledge among his friends who knew he was in deep personal debt because of his political entanglements.

WAY IT WENT

"It was conversation among close friends," said Dodd. "Talk like 'Tom, how are you doing. We ought to try to get this off your back... you have a lot of bills, personal bills.' That's the way it went."

The Connecticut Democrat testified for the first time before the committee, which is investigating charges that he used political contributions for his personal use without paying income taxes on them.

Operating Revenues Soar

Air Canada Flies Steadily

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Increased use of Air Canada both by passengers and for freight was reported in 1966 when the national airline increased its operating revenues by 16 per cent to $290,000,000.

The net income was down to $2,909,878 from $3,989,960, but it was a bookkeeping drop because, in 1966, provision for income taxes of $2,910,000 was taken off the income of $5,819,878, while in the $3,989,960 income of 1965 no similar provision was made.

G. R. McGregor, president, said Air Canada had increased its revenue by the summer strike of five major U.S. airlines.

ALSO A STRIKE

But much of the advantage was lost later when Air Canada was off the air for two weeks also because of a strike.

With orders on hand for new jet aircraft Air Canada expects it will require some external financing this year but the outlook is good, according to Mr. McGregor, for an ever-growing use of the company's facilities. This summer, with delays in deliveries of new aircraft, Air Canada expects its carrying capacity to be fully taxed.

Air Canada carried 5,235,561 passengers in 1966, up 11 per cent over the previous year, while air freight rose by 33 per cent to 74,628,000 ton-miles.

CFA ADVANCES TOO

Canadian Pacific Airlines also did good business in 1966 when it showed an operating profit of $7,900,000, up 24 per cent over $6,400,000 in the previous year.

J. C. Gilmer, president, said revenues rose to $82,600,000 from $72,000,000 in 1965 and expects them to rise about 20 per cent this year.

U.S. LOANS SOLD

Laurentide Financial Corp. has sold out its U.S. consumer loans business to CIT Financial for $8,000,000 of which $5,000,000 is to be paid in cash immediately with a $3,000,000 holdback.

A net loss of $1,067,000 is reported by Laurentide for the seven months ended Dec. 31, but the firm says its Canadian operations were profitable.

BIENVENUE TO RESCUE

A Montreal financier has stepped in to provide British International Finance Canada Ltd. the money it requires to meet its obligations with the Bank of Western Canada.

Marc Bienvenu, 35, chairman and president of Corporation, Ponce of Montreal, is reported to have bought up to 600,000 unissued common and A shares of BIF, at $5 each and to a six-month loan to York Lambton, a BIF subsidiary.

As a result of the deal Sinclair Stevens has been replaced president of BIF, a position from which he resigned six years and six months and 23 earlier this month after putting four years and one month. They will be for $350,000,000, open end and 10 per cent over or under the stated amount. The Bank of

From Winnipeg, James Coyne, president of the Bank of Western Canada, said BIF now has paid the $1,450,000 it owes for shares in the new bank and share certificates have been issued.

Refinancing plans for $475,000,000 were announced Friday by the Canadian finance department.

Grocers Advance To Meet Winnipeg

Winnipeg held off a Surin comeback to beat the Knights 75-70, and will meet Vancouver Grocers, 72-57, victors over Albany Athletics, in the final.

Grocers, defending Canadian champions, came within a point of beating Madisons during the round robin play when they were upset, 77-78, by the prairie team.

Playing coach Fred Ingkaskon is "Confident we can beat the Grocers again."

Vancouver has been visibly hindered by the different style of basketball played by the eastern clubs in the tournament.

Winnipeg, with the emphasis on ball control and set plays.

The pattern in B.C. has basically evolved around the fast break type of play and Grocers are specialists at it.

Against Albany, which employs the same basic pattern they proved just too strong.

Grocers led 33-26 at half time although Albany had started a comeback behind centre Neil Dirum.

Athletics closed the gap to four points with seven minutes left but then fell apart.

MISSED A KREGO

Athletic forward Don Kregg had fouled out with 15 minutes left to play and without his defensive work, Grocers ran up 13 unanswered points to take a 64-47 lead and then controlled the ball the rest of the way for the victory.

Neil Willisroft scored 14 of his 18 points in the first half to get Grocers off the ground while Gene Rizak took over in the second half, scoring all of his 17 points.

Al Birtles and Vince Knight each checked in with 13 points and Billy-Joe Price added 10 as Grocers came up with their first balanced attack in the tournament.

Larry Lehtonen picked up 16 of his 20 points in the second half but was unable to get Athletics moving after Kregg fouled out.

Neil Dirum, a standout for Albany throughout the tournament added 14 points and Dave Way, picked up from Vancouver White Spots scored 10.

MADISON'S EXPLODED

Winnipeg and Sarnia were deadlocked with 31 points each and seven minutes left to play in the first half when Madisons exploded for 14 straight points to lead, 45-31, at the half.

Madisons added six more points at the beginning of the second half but Knights fought back to trail, 66-54 with seven minutes left in the game.

Winnipeg scored the next four points and then kept control of the ball forcing Sarnia, to press and take costly fouls.

LARSEN LED WAY

Centre Ken Larsen, a former Albany resident, was leading scorer for Winnipeg with 26 points while former UBC Thunderbird John Cook added 18.

Ingkaskon kept his club together during the Sarnia surge getting most of his 15 points in the second half.

Sarnia's frustrated comeback was led by the outside shooting of Barry Howsen, Tom Henderson, Ron Vernecke and Grant Gordon. Howsen and Henderson each scored 17 points and the other two had 14 each.

Sarnia and Albany meet in the consolation game tonight at 7 p.m., followed by the final between Winnipeg and Vancouver at 9 p.m.

B.C. Drops Curling Marathon

Manitoba Cops Title

NORTH BAY (CP)—Royal Canadian Legion curling championships. The rinks were tied with seven wins and one loss after the regular nine-round draw, forcing a playoff to declare a winner. B.C. forced a playoff by clinching Manitoba 11-6 in a morning match. It was Manitoba's first defeat in the eight-match tournament.

Other placings in the championships were decided in ninth-round play that ended at noon. Alberta came third with a 5-3 record followed by Quebec with four wins and four defeats.

New Brunswick, Ontario, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia followed with identical 3-5 records, while Saskatchewan trailed with only one win and seven defeats.

BLANK SIX ENDS
The tense playoff match was a knock-out battle with the rinks blanking six of the 14 ends.

The straight misses by Scales paved the way for a three-ender by B.C. in the 11th end to bring the Kamloops skip to within one point of Manitoba. With B.C. lying shot in the 12th, Scales' last rock was light enabling McKinnon to steal the end for a point to tie the match 5-5.

Scales had a chance to wrap up the match in the 13th but his last rock was a foot short of an empty house.

B.C. was lying shot again in the 14th but this time Scales drew around a guard to take out the B.C. stone and score the winning point.

In ninth round games, Saskatchewan, skipped by Art Hine of North Bay, beat Rudy Steski of North Bay 8-6 while Quebec skip Syd Drew of Lechute edged Alberta, led by skip Dunc Grant of Calgary, 9-8. The other match saw skip Ted Henry of Truro lead his Nova Scotia rink to an 8-5 victory over New Brunswick, skipped by Herb Edgett of Moncton.

Joins Giants

Jim Trimble, former head coach of the Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger Cats and Philadelphia Eagles, signed Friday as the New York Giants' offensive line coach. The 48-year-old Trimble coached Hamilton in the 1957 Grey Cup win.

Price Right For Cuban Sports Fans

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The Cuban government announced Friday that admission to all national sports events will be free.

The National Institute of Sports also said there will be no admission charge for international events in Cuba "with the exception of those provided for by international sports organizations competing in Cuba."

The Communist newspaper Granma said the decision was made in response to suggestions made by Premier Fidel Castro last weekend during an interview at the Cuban national baseball championships.

Free admission "is a right of the public, an important factor in the formation of our youth and a conquest produced by the revolution," the newspaper said.

Ingraham Raiders were held to a 3-3 tie and B.C. Civil Service defeated Delta Hotel, 4-3.

France's Killy Wins Again

VAIL, Colo. (UPI)—Jean Claude Killy of France captured the giant slalom, his fifth consecutive American race, Friday to keep his team in the lead in the world series of skiing, but Austria threw up a stiff challenge for team honors.

Killy turned to tricky maneuvering near the end of the 66-gate giant slalom course and finished with an official time of 86.17 seconds, well ahead of teammate Guy Perillat, who was timed at 87.41.

Canada's Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., regained her early season form and won the women's giant slalom in 107.07 seconds despite a near fall on a steep ridge near the finish of the wet, rutty 70-gate course.

She was followed by Inge Gochum of Austria with a second place time of 108.95.

Rick and Suzy Chaffee, an American brother-sister team each grabbed third place for the strongest U.S. performances with respective times of 88.07 and 109.01 on the mile-long courses.

AUSTRIANS MOVED UP
The Austrians, helped by disqualifications of Marielle Gotschel and Florence Steurer of France, narrowed the margin in team standings and came close enough to the French to offer strong competition in the series finale Saturday with the downhill.

At the end of Friday's run the French led with 168 points. The Austrians had 149, the United States 119, Switzerland 99 and Canada 55.

The giant slalom was started earlier than scheduled because warm weather for the past three days has been turning the snow to near slush by afternoon.

DIDN'T FOOL KILLY
By the time the women's race was run near noon, the course had become rutted and several lady skiers disqualified because of the tricky terrain and conditions.

The most disastrous disqualifications for the French were those of Misses Gotschel and Steurer, who would have been

Tips You Off

AUCKLAND, New Zealand — It's late, green summer now. Down Under. A warm 78 degrees with a cooling breeze blowing across the isthmus city from the Pacific to the Tasman Sea.

This is all new country for North Americans. (Only 20,000 last year, mainly on overnight cruise ships.) But on April 1 the round-trip air fare West Coast to Australia will drop.

BOAC will begin service on the route. With QANTAS and Air New Zealand, the Commonwealth airlines will have 16 flights a week each way.

Are there any sailboats for charter around Acapulco or Puerto Vallarta?

At Acapulco a couple of days ago, somebody wanted to rent me a 50-foot boat — at $30 a day! But did you know Mike Burke's Windjammer Cruises are operating down here now? They run the schooner Polyneia — 151 feet. A 10-day cruise along offshore ports for about $220. Get a folder by writing Michael Hayes, Hotel Caleta, Acapulco, Mexico.

... shopping for women's sports clothing in Mexico? I usually bring something back from Peggy Pena's — she's the designer in Acapulco. Any of her things will be smart and excellently done.

Acapulco's "season" seems to be getting longer. That warm, lovely sunset town was still swinging the other night when I got on the QANTAS minute-to-midnight jet. Champagne and chicken sandwiches while the green-and-gold lights were still under the wing. And that's living.

Did you write that a foreign trip can be figured the same as the price of a local package of cigarettes?

David Dodge (Poor Man's Guide to Europe, Orient etc.) says he estimates a local tip by the price of a local bottle of beer. (Probably cigarettes would work too.) That is a tip equivalent to our tip for doormen, hat check girls, and so on. The tip we do at 25 to 50 cents.

Could you give us some idea of living costs if we rented a house in Hawaii?

I did this last year but still cannot determine whether I came out better or worse than home. Renting a car is expensive. Canned goods seemed a little higher. But island beef was lower than home. New Zealand lamb is very inexpensive.

Entertainment is cheap. Beach and ocean are free. And the State parks so fine you enjoy picnicking there. Over a long time you'd save on clothing. What you wear is inexpensive.

WORLD'S MOST COMPLETE TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM

Any Tourist Can Fix It

Love Lights Paris

PARIS (UPI)—It was early in the morning. The tourist stood with his date before the darkened Arc de Triomphe.

"At 2 a.m., I'm gonna snap my fingers and it'll light up just for you," he told the disbelieving girl besides him.

The hour struck. Suddenly spotlights opened up, etching out in the darkness the white facade of the world-famed monument.

At this point, the girl is supposed to fall into her escort's arms.

If she doesn't, it certainly isn't the fault of the illumination of monuments department of the City of Paris which regularly, for a small price, handles hundreds of similar requests a year.

City engineer Joseph Calvet's department plays the unlikely role of Cupid.

The city's 100 odd monuments are lit up from May to October 15 from 9 p.m. to midnight and during the rest of the year from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., but in the early morning hours, for prices ranging from 20 cents to $66 an hour, the monuments can be lit up by anyone having the money.

One needs only to call up Calvet at his office at city hall—272-9200—a few hours before the required monument is to be floodlit.

The prices vary according to the size of the monument.

The Arc de Triomphe costs $26.40 an hour while the Place de la Concorde, often called the most beautiful square in the world, costs only $11 an hour to light up and that includes two fountains spraying water thrown in.

For $4 an hour you can light up from the outside ancient St. Germain des Pres church, one of the most beautiful in Paris. Historic Notre Dame Cathedral and the Madeleine Church, which resembles a Greek temple, can be lit for $3.52. The 984-foot high Eiffel Tower can be lit up from top to bottom for $55 an hour.

The most expensive items are the fountains at the Place de Varsovie, easily the most spectacular light and water display in Paris, overlooking the Seine and facing the Palais de Chaillot. This costs $66 an hour.

A really big-time spender can light up all the monuments for $460 an hour. Calvet said "the calls, which numbered nearly 400 in 1966, are mainly from men wanting to impress their girl friends."

Jubilee Coronary Centre Lifesaver for 40 a Year

Royal Jubilee Hospital hopes to have in operation by mid-August a new coronary care centre that will save the lives of 40 Victorians each year.

Dr. George Woodward, head of the hospital's cardiology department, says the $46,000 unit will have heart monitoring and other equipment that will help doctors and nurses save lives of half the cardiac patients who currently do not recover.

ALARMS SOUND
The moment a patient's heart starts to beat slower or faster than normal alarms will sound.

Oscilloscopes in the wards and nursing station, "reading" the beat via electrodes on the patient's chest, will immediately tell the staff what's going wrong.

Heart monitoring equipment has been in use at Royal Jubilee for three years. However, they have been comparatively crude devices which often set off false alarms.

"We have learned a tremendous amount from this equipment," said Dr. Woodward. "I don't think anyone should go into sophisticated coronary care units until they have had this experience."

The coronary care quarters that will open in August will consist of four private rooms, a situation which will accommodate both men and women.

ONE CLUSTER
The privacy will relieve patients of the ordeal of watching and hearing colleagues go through their rough moments.

The coronary care centre will adjoin Royal Jubilee's intensive care centre. This arrangement will require only one cluster of specially-trained staff.

Now Children's Wing

Old Ward Renovated

In 1904, a ward of 13 private rooms, each with its own fireplace, was added to Royal Jubilee Hospital at a cost of $5,000.

Sixty-three years later, the hospital has just spent $12,000 only renovating the place.

The old Strathcona ward, after being renovated for the third time, now is Royal Jubilee's new children's ward—a modern, 31-bed unit. The fireplaces went a long time ago.

LAST RENOVATION
"We're hoping this will be the last renovation for this place,"

Michael Fraser, the hospital's assistant administrator, said this week. "We hope a new and updated children's ward will be in future new construction."

The fact this is the third renovation of the old Strathcona ward is an illustration of how the hospital has had to use every nook and cranny of space, no matter how outdated it may have been, and at the same time keep up with equipment innovations and new concepts of hospital care.

The new children's ward has 31 beds and bassinets.

Nurses Seek Arbitration

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Psychiatric Nurses Association of B.C. has asked for an arbitration board to settle its dispute with the provincial government. The nurses are asking for a 25 per cent increase and have been offered 5.5 per cent.

which is less than the 48-patient capacity of the previous ward.

It does not mean that Royal Jubilee is cutting back on its admissions of children, however. Youngsters with certain illnesses now are being sent to other areas of the hospital, such as isolation, eye and the ear, nose and throat wards.

EQUAL SHARE
It took the hospital's own crews three weeks to renovate the ward, adding admitting and waiting rooms, sprucing up the kitchen, putting petitions in some of the rooms and installing oxygen and suction.

The $12,000 cost will be shared equally by the federal, provincial and local levels. The local contribution has come from the hospital's junior auxiliary.

At St. Joseph's

Film Processor Speeds X-Rays

A $10,000 film processor is giving St. Joseph's Hospital almost instant x-ray pictures.

No larger than a 21-inch television set, it processes x-ray film in 90 seconds. Earlier model processors required several minutes and manual processing needed up to one hour for similar results.

It can process more films than were previously handled in a 15-foot line of manual tanks.

ADVANCE FILM
This advance in x-ray film processing has been gained mainly through using higher solution temperatures than were previously possible. Rapid mechanical transport of films by conveyor rollers also has contributed to the accelerated processing.

"Increased productivity and greater efficiency have been noted in the x-ray department following installation of this machine," said a hospital spokesman. "This has been reflected in improved care and service to patients and physicians."

KEEPING FULL
The average North American eats 3,120 calories a day, compared with 2,070 in the Far East.

Ambassador by American Motors is big where a big car should be big. Inside.

For openers: more rear-seat legroom than any other standard-size car!
For the rest: read on.

Ambassador is a 6-passenger standard-size car. To us that means 3 in the front and 3 in the back. All adults. All comfortable. All the time. That's why Ambassador has more rear-seat legroom than a standard-size Chev, Ford or Plymouth. Even more than an Oldsmobile 88. Heads? We give them breathing room. Lots of it. Hips? Ambassador provides as much hip-room per person as an office arm chair (the kind many people sit in 8 hours a day). To illustrate Ambassador's people-space even more dramatically, we'll compare our convertible model. It actually has 6 inches more rear shoulder-room than any other standard-size convertible! Nor have we neglected trunk room. Ambassador gives you an honest 18.2 cu. ft. of storage space. That's more than enough for all your vacation luggage.

Along with all that extra room, we also provide the best way possible to enjoy it—coil spring seats. Front and rear. Coil spring seats are a great idea that other standard-size cars don't give you. (The only other North American car that does is Cadillac.) The firm support that these seats give actually reduces driving fatigue. Ambassador also offers optional reclining seats with safety headrests. There's another thing inside Ambassador that's worth shouting about—the quiet. There are two reasons: tightness and insulation. Tightness in Ambassador begins with the way American Motors puts the body together. We use Single-Unit Construction. All body parts are welded together to form a single, solid unit. Door frames are precision-tooled to guarantee a tight fit. Then we add another Ambassador's extra roominess is a no-extra-cost extra from American Motors.

Ambassador 900 4-Door Sedan that don't add needless pounds to the weight they already have to pull. There are 2 high performance 6's and 3 V-8's, giving you a choice of power ranging all the way up to a 343 cu. in. V-8. To your choice of engine, add Ambassador's "extra-gear" 3-speed automatic transmission. The extra gear allows the engine to operate closer to peak performance for better acceleration. Or, choose from other transmission options like Shift-Command, for both manual and automatic shifting; the fully synchronized 4-on-the-floor; or overdrive.

That's part of our inside story. Roomy, comfortable, quiet, powerful, practical. There's an equally exciting outside story. Some highlights: A beautiful body Deep-Dipped seven times in special rust-proofing solutions. A long-lasting acrylic enamel finish that stays bright and lustrous. A new coil spring suspension system that soaks up bumps like a sponge. An exhaust system with a corrosion-resistant ceramic coating to help it last for years.

The ceramic surface of this exhaust system is like a sheet of glass. Makes it tough for corrosion to get a foothold.

What more can we tell you? There's so much more. Enough in fact, to warrant your taking a much closer look at Ambassador. Go see an American Motors/Rambler Dealer. Try the roomier Ambassador on for size. Try it on the route you drive. Then draw your own conclusions.

Objection To Mob, Not Scene

BERLIN (UPI) — A nude woman wearing only a plastic garden hose, turned a happening into an event in quick time.

The woman walked on stage at a happening at an art academy called "Fire, Air and Earth." It was not known which element she portrayed.

At the moment of her appearance 30 youths out of the 650 present climbed on the stage. Academy officials called police, who cleared the hall.

The police explained they didn't object to Fire, Air or Earth, or even the nudity, but there were 150 more people in the hall than the law allowed, making it a fire hazard.

For Men

Pills Dusty, Busty

TORONTO (CP) — Male technicians working in a Toronto factory making birth control pills have to wear "space suits" to keep from getting enlarged breasts and falsetto voices.

Robert Jewiss, pharmacist at the plant, says the suits are necessary because hormones used in the pills can cause breast enlargement and higher voices in men.

The results of inhaling the hormones may not show up for two or three months and don't disappear for another two or three months, he said. Women are unaffected but the plant can't use women because the work is too heavy.

The suits, which look like they connected to an oxygen system, are made of plastic and can't use women because the work is too heavy.

The suits, which look like they belong on astronauts, are connected to an oxygen system. The room in which the men work has a separate circulation of air which is filtered and cleaned before being recirculated.

Officials at Ortho Pharmaceutical (Canada) Ltd. says their company is the largest producer of birth control pills in Canada. Ten-to-15 batches of pills are turned out every month and each batch contains 900,000 pills.

Company officials say birth control pills sell better in the plastic pack containing one month's supply than in bulk.

"I guess women just don't want to be bothered having to count," said one official.

The company estimates that between 500,000 and 600,000 Canadian women take birth control pills—about one-quarter of all the married women of child-bearing age.

Mystery Of Bag Remains

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State University's celebrated Black Bag took his final examination in a speech class Thursday — and departed without identifying himself.

The mysterious masquerader, who attended classes for nearly three months shrouded in a black bag that reached to his bare feet, tried to explain the whole thing in his brief final speech.

"I told them," the Black Bag said, "Love is happening."

OMINOUS PRESENCE

The identity of the student was known only to Dr. Charles Gutzinger, the speech professor who granted him permission to wear a bag to class. His ominous presence caused uneasiness among his classmates, and eventually attracted nationwide attention.

"I started this on my own," the mysterious student told UPI recently. "Then I found I really couldn't get out of the bag. I got committed to it."

Otis Birch Dies at 95

Tug-of-War Prize May Cause Battle

DALLAS (UPI) — The death Wednesday of A. Otis Birch, 95-year-old, 35-pound California philanthropist who became the prize in a tug-of-war between relatives and a 200-pound female ex-convict, was announced Friday while his body was on the way to a mausoleum.

He was entombed shortly after disclosure of his death.

COURT FIGHT

His death was expected to set off a court battle for his estate, once said to have totalled $20,000,000 but now believed to have dwindled to less than $1,000,000 because of philanthropies and gifts.

Mrs. Pearl Choate Birch, a 58-year-old, six-foot practical nurse whom Birch eloped with three weeks after his first wife died in Breckenridge, Tex., was composed and quiet at his funeral.

SIX TIMES

She was married six times before she eloped with Birch to Oklahoma and has an extensive criminal record, including a 12-year sentence for murdering a carpenter at a drive-in restaurant.

"This is a marriage of convenience, not of passion," she said after a Texas judge ruled last November that it looked like a legal marriage.

IN TRAILER

Birch died in an aluminum trailer in a park in northwest Dallas. He was deaf, crippled from a broken hip and almost blind.

An autopsy was performed by Dr. Frank Corpa.

"He died of circulatory collapse and chronic congestive heart failure," Dr. Corpa said. "It was just brought on by old age."

Birch

Rev. Jay Channel, a Church of Christ minister, conducted a brief private funeral Thursday over the body of Birch, lying in a solid copper casket on pale yellow satin.

The body was entombed in a mausoleum in Laurel Land Memorial Park.

Channel said, "The wife was well composed, I would say."

90 DAYS

The U.S. National Bank of Monrovia, Calif., was appointed conservator of Birch's estate last Jan. 19. The bank has 90 days from last Wednesday to file an accounting.

Dr. Adrian Heaton, president of the California Baptist Theological Seminary at Covina, said he was "saddened" by Birch's death. "He was a very good friend of the seminary," Dr. Heaton said.

OFTEN HELPED

California Baptist seminary was one of the main beneficiaries of Birch's philanthropies. The new Mrs. Birch brought Birch and his 93-year-old first wife, Estelle, from South Pasadena, Calif., to Breckenridge, Tex., last September.

Birch's first wife died in Breckenridge Oct. 7. Mrs. Pearl Choate Birch drove him to Oklahoma and married him in front of a justice of the peace's home while he lay in the back of an automobile.

Mrs. Martha Tulleys of Los Angeles and Harlan Moehn of Iowa testified in a hearing in Breckenridge last October, to show Birch's bride was holding him against his will.

Birch, reading questions scrawled in big letters on a legal pad through a magnifying glass, denied he was being held against his will. District Judge C. H. Griffin held the marriage was legal under Texas law.

A California court later held a temporary guardianship granted to Mrs. Tulleys was no longer binding because Birch was by then a resident of Texas.

LETCHWORTH, England (UPI) — Two young men were accused Friday of treating two girls to "a prolonged orgy of drug-taking" and then callously withholding the name of the drug when brought to give it to save the life of one of the girls before she died.

Anthony Stevenson, 24, and Terence Brown, 21, were charged with the manslaughter of Bridgett Mynott, 18. The other girl, Anne Walsh, 19, recovered.

LITTLE KNOWN

They were also charged with stealing pep pills and a little-known drug named parstelin from a drug store.

Prosecutor Hugh Cosham said the two men took the girls out in a car Feb. 19 "and treated them to a prolonged orgy of drug taking." They gave the girls the parstelin, not knowing its effects although they saw "poison" written on it, he said. These pills are often prescribed in mental institutions for people suffering from depression or anxiety.

FATAL DOSE

The fatal dose is reckoned to be 30 tablets, according to medical evidence. The girls consumed 140 tablets between them, Cosham said.

Police saw Stevenson and Brown on many occasions that day and besought them to give the name of the drug so the hospital would know what treatment to give, but the two men repeatedly denied they knew anything about it.

KNEW IT ALL

In fact, Cosham said, they knew the name of the drug, the number of pills taken by the girls, and the whereabouts of the empty tin from which doctors could have obtained a chemical analysis of the drug.

The understandable tax form for the man who's his own boss.

Being independent, you'll appreciate our initiative in changing the tax form for people in business for themselves who file a T1 General.

The change wasn't radical.

Nothing that called for a vote by the shareholders.

But it does make things more efficient.

And more understandable.

We changed the type face for one thing. It's easier to read now. And we thinned down the whole tax form by removing any tables that didn't apply to everyone. We put those tables in the new Tax Guide for people who did need them.

The new Tax Guide? Yes, we've changed that too. We realized that a do-it-yourselfer like you needs clear instructions. So we went over everything very carefully to make sure we were communicating clearly.

If you read your Tax Guide carefully, you shouldn't have any difficulty. The Tax Guide makes the T1 General Tax Form quite understandable. Even if you fill it out for yourself.

The understandable tax form.

Recreation on Ballot Today

Saanich owner-electors today decide whether or not they want $1,250,000 worth of recreation facilities built in the municipality during the next five years.

There are 28,127 people who are eligible to cast ballots at 13 polling places which will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. The Mystic Knights Car Club is offering rides to the polls to anyone who doesn't have a car. People living west of Douglas Street should call 385-9487 and those east of Douglas may call 477-3722.

Here are the polling places: Cloverdale School, Quadra Street; Frank Hobbs School, Haro Road; Glenford School, Glenford Avenue; Gordon Head Elementary School, Kenmore Road. Lansdowne Junior Secondary School, Lansdowne Road; Store No. 7, Seaview Shopping Plaza, Gordova Bay

Road; St. Joseph's Parish Hall, Burnside Road West; Mount View Secondary School, Carey Road. Prospect Lake Community Hall, Sparrow Road; Royal Oak Secondary School, West Saanich Road; St. Luke's Hall, Cedar Hill Cross Road; St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Hall, Obed Avenue and Tillikum School, Orilla Street. The referendum, if adopted,

Interest at High Level

If turnout at advance polls is an indication, interest is running fairly high in the Saanich recreation referendum, which will be decided today.

By Friday, 55 owner-electors had cast ballots. Advance polls were open between 8 a.m.

and 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday. While the polls weren't swarming with voters, the turnout was much greater than the advance poll for the December municipal election.

would give council authority to borrow $900,000 during the five-year period between Nov. 1 this year and Oct. 31, 1972. The remaining $350,000 would be raised in this manner: $38,000 from Saanich's 1967 budget, $100,000 from the sale of tax sale lands and $102,000 from a subsequent municipal budget. The $350,000 debt would be retired over 20 years. In addition to finding money for the capital costs, Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe has estimated that in the initial stages of operation the municipality probably will have to subsidize recreation centres to the extent of $50,000 a year. The amount needed to finance the $950,000 loan would be about one mill, or $8 a year for someone now paying about $400 a year in general and school taxes.

Here are the four projects proposed in the referendum:

● A $470,000 swimming pool and community centre on the Lambriek Estate in the Gordon Head area. The largest single project in the proposal, it would include a 25-metre indoor swimming pool and a multi-purpose community building.

● A $420,000 ice arena in the Tillikum-Burnside area, which would be built on municipally-owned property. There would be a standard ice sheet of 200-by-85 and seating for 800 to 900 spectators.

● A $260,000 community centre on the McRae Estate, encompassing Cedar Hill golf course and nearby property. It would provide meeting rooms and hobby areas.

● A $100,000 senior citizens centre at Hampton Park, which would provide a small auditorium, lounge, meeting and activity rooms and a kitchen.

Colquitz Level Deadly Threat

By JOHN MATTERS

An entire generation of fish is in danger of dying because the water level of Colquitz Creek has suddenly been lowered.

Outdoorsmen and people living along the creek have been rescuing spawning cutthroat trout from shallow pools and placing them in deeper water, where they can lay their eggs.

Dr. Marc Bell, a University of Victoria biology professor, said Friday the trouble apparently was caused by the raising of a weir which controls flow from Beaver Lake into Colquitz.

Dr. Bell and Dr. E. M. Hagmeier, also on the biology staff, said it was regrettable the weir had to be raised, reducing the stream's volume at a time when the fish were spawning. "It's unfortunate there just isn't a degree of understanding," said Dr. Bell.

Bruce Colegrave, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Conservation Society, an organization of 12 fish and wildlife clubs, said the cut-back in stream flow was "an atrocious thing."

In addition to preventing cutthroat from spawning, the lack of water could kill eggs already in gravel beds.

"If the weir stays at that level, it means Colquitz could be dry all summer, except for the sewage and other wastes that are being dumped into it," said Mr. Colegrave.

One person living near the creek in the past two days has rescued seven spawners, another rescued 12 that were flapping around in small pools. The fish were found in that portion of Colquitz just north of West Saanich Road.

The fish are a sea-going species that migrate to freshwater to spawn and after hatching return to saltwater, spending most of their adult life in the Gorge.

Mr. Colegrave said the tragedy is the creek at this time of the year is a favorite fishing spot for children.

QUICK DROP
"It has been high all winter, then suddenly this week it dropped off," said an outdoorsman who lives near Colquitz. "If the water had dropped off gradually, it would have given the fish a chance."

The Colquitz Creek system drains the southern part of the Saanich Peninsula, an area of more than 25 square miles, and has about 20 miles of waterways.

It is the largest system of its kind on the Saanich Peninsula and in previous years supported runs of thousands of cutthroat trout.

Airport Inadequate

Oriental Tourists Fly Past, Slogan Could Lure Them

By A. H. MURPHY

City Hall Reporter

Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce were given a glimpse into the future Friday — a future in which thousands of Oriental tourists, mainly Japanese, will spend holidays on Vancouver Island.

Sam Lane, who recently returned from a 34,000-mile trip around the world, said that there is a vast untapped tourist potential in southeast Asia as well as in Japan.

As it is, the hotel proprietor added, Japanese are coming to Canada but they are flying right over the Island to inland centres.

Mr. Lane admitted that such a condition might be many years in coming but come it would, he said, and business people on the Island should keep it clearly in view.

For this reason as well as others, Mr. Lane said, the Island needed a slogan. He suggested "Canada's Island in the Pacific."

GENERALLY FAVORED
The slogan had received approval in many quarters, Mr. Lane said, and he was recommending it, as was the tourist industry group of the chamber, for acceptance.

E. E. Pearlman had no quarrel with the slogan but thought members of the chamber should have an opportunity to think it over before being asked to adopt it. He recalled that other hasty decisions in the past had had embarrassing sequelae.

TREASURE DISASTER
"We had 'Treasure Island,' remember? It was a disaster," said president Courtney Haddock.

The question of tourists from the Pacific led to a discussion of the Victoria airport and its inability to accommodate jetliners.

RIGHT OVER
There was lots of Oriental tourist business, Mr. Lane repeated, but it was flying right over Vancouver Island.

Air Canada manager in Victoria, Stanton Mooney said that Victoria with its 6,000-foot runways, provided only marginal safety for jets.

TAKEOFF PROBLEMS
The could land here, he said, but found difficulty in taking off loaded. It was, furthermore, almost impossible to set up schedules.

Mr. Mooney had no doubt that the airport would be altered in the future and that jets would operate from Victoria but it might be well into the future, he said.

BETTER ROAD
George Farmer said the transportation and harbor group of the chamber had been working hard to have an improved access road built to the airport.

The federal government refused to assume any responsibility but an assurance had been received from Minister of Highways Gagliardi that the province would pay half the cost of construction. A letter has been sent to Mayor Hugh Stephen asking if he had any suggestions.

INDUSTRY IDEA

Civic affairs group chairman Clyde Savage said the co-operation of Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich had been obtained in the work of getting a new area industrial research commission started.

Before Vietnam Seminar on Campus

Joan Too Tired for Reception

About a dozen amateur and professional critics and supporters of U.S. efforts in the Vietnam War arrived in Victoria Friday night for a weekend seminar. Others arrive this morning.

The seminar was preceded Friday night by an informal reception in the comfortable modern lounge of the University of Victoria's Student Union Building.

SHE FLEW
Among the main guests expected was pacifist-folk singer Joan Baez. However, she did not arrive.

A seminar spokesman said Miss Baez flew from Montreal to Vancouver Friday, where she lectured to University of B.C. students.

He said she was exhausted and had retired to bed.

LIBERAL MP
Among the participants in the seminar are Senator Henry Jackson, of Washington, a supporter of the U.S. position in Vietnam.

The Canadian government will be unofficially represented by Warren Allmand, Liberal MP for Montreal Notre Dame de Grace and a member of the Commons committee on external affairs.

Canada's participation in the conflict will be discussed by Professor Mordecai Breimberg of the department of political science at Simon Fraser University.

A Canadian defender of the U.S. position in the war, Professor Laurence Evans of SFU's history department will talk on U.S. strategy and national interest in the Far East.

SAW VIETNAM
A 27-year-old Newark, N.J., community organizer and Rutgers University lecturer on government, Thomas Hayden, is billed as having spoken with North Vietnamese Premier Ho Chi Minh.

Mr. Hayden, who spent two weeks in North Vietnam early last year and spoke with various officials, in an interview Friday, said he had not met Ho Chi Minh but got a good overall impression of the North Vietnamese position during his stay.

Mr. Hayden entered Hanoi from China after visiting Moscow. He did not enter South Vietnam.

"The U.S. is lacking in a positive response to other countries' independence... their attitude is negative, sometimes predatory, sometimes violent," he said.

FIRST SESSION
"Canada is an American economic possession, and Australia, by participating, is being played for a sucker by the U.S.," Mr. Hayden said. The first session of the seminar begins at 10 a.m. today in Lansdowne Junior High school. Sunday's session will be conducted in the University of Victoria's gymnasium.

Two day passes for non-students cost $2 and are available at the Student Union Building, Eaton's and Munro's Bookstore.

Cannon 'Toys' Mind-Warpers

By living in the past, Esquimalt council can be warping the minds of the children within the municipality. Voice of Women president Mrs. Dorcas Blair charged Friday.

She ripped apart council's idea of placing two First World War cannons in municipal playgrounds, saying that municipal leadership was showing a lack of imagination.

"They are tied to antiquity," she said. "The children don't even like these things."

EAGER TO PLEASE

"Sure, they will play on them, but only because they are tolerant and kindly, and eager to please adults."

She termed council's proposal to refurbish the cannon for children "unfortunate."

"This is not the kind of thinking we need in the future."

"Our children need constructive toys."

"They don't agree with this kind of thing, but they seem to take the attitude that if this is what the adults want of them, they will go along with it."

She agreed with council that the cannon are harmless.

PRETEND TO KILL

"They are so far back in antiquity they have to be harmless, but what can a child do with them, except pretend to kill people?"

"Is this what we want them to think of as acceptable behavior?"

"We can warp their minds by encouraging them to play war games."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband committed suicide several months ago. It is impossible to describe the agony I have suffered. Only the wife of a suicide can fully understand it. For several weeks I felt as if I had killed my husband. I had the notion that everyone who looked at me judged me guilty of murder.

Finally I sold our home and moved to another part of the country. I see now it was the worst thing I could have done. I feel as if I have run away from a crime I had no part in. I miss my old friends desperately. Although I've told no one here of the circumstances surrounding my husband's death I have the feeling that some of them know.

Last year the known suicide rate in this country exceeded 30,000. Surely I am not the only person who made the mistake of running away. Please print my letter and advise people not to do it. Thank you, Ann. — NO PLACE TO HIDE.

Dear No: Moving away from a scene of sorrow can be the best thing in the world for some ways.

people and the worst thing for others. If you feel you've made a mistake, move back. Planes fly both ways, you know.

Dear Ann Landers: I went to work for an extremely successful man several weeks ago. Now I know why he is so successful. The first day on the job he called me in to take dictation and I was appalled. He dictated a long, angry letter, filled with insulting remarks.

The following day when I presented the letter for his signature he said, "Oh, that," and tore it up. This same thing has occurred several times and now I see the wisdom in his ways.

He gets the hostility out of his system without hurting anyone's feelings or regretting his explosiveness. If you think this is worth sharing, please print it. — LERENDA LOT.

Dear Lerenda: I do and I did.

Dear Ann Landers: I am serious about a young woman who is charming, bright and sweet, and I'm sure Irene returns the love I feel for her. But I hesitate to take the step that will finalize our future together because she is so sloppy.

My best friend is married to Irene's former college roommate. He is disgusted with his wife's sloppiness and makes no bones about it. He warns me if I marry Irene I should prepare to live with her dirty dormitory habits.

I am not "crazy clean." I toss a tie here and a sock there but when I go to Irene's apartment I am always bothered by the sight of her clothes on chairs, on doorknobs, and even on the floor. I see bacon grease half an inch thick on the kitchen stove and the bathtub never looks clean.

Why don't girls realize that most men are impressed with cleanliness as well as character and personality? I, for one, would marry a woman sooner if I felt she would be a competent housekeeper. — RESIDENT DOCTOR.

Dear Doc.: You didn't ask for advice so I won't offer any. I'll give you a small hint, however. Your friend gave you an excellent preview of what to expect if you marry Irene and you'd better believe it, Doc.

Superport Criticism Hurts Coal — Bonner

Criticism of provincial "superport" plans have seriously jeopardized critical Canadian coal sales negotiations, Attorney-General Bonner said Friday.

Meanwhile in Vancouver, an official of Crown Coal Industries took CPR President Ian Sinclair to task for his claims that a Crown Coal plan to ship coal to the Canadian West Coast on an American railway would be illegal.

W. R. Prentice, executive vice-president of the Fernie company, made the remarks in a telephone interview from Tokyo where he is negotiating a $250,000 export coal deal with officials of the Japanese coal industry.

Mr. Bonner's comments came during debate on second reading in the legislature of a bill establishing a provincial harbor authority. The authority would be used initially to spur development of "superport" facilities at Roberts Bank, 20 miles south of Vancouver.

The bill received second reading, or approval in principle, by a vote of 46-10-5, the 16 NDP opposition members voting with the Social Credit government. The five Liberal MLAs present voted against the bill.

The Roberts Bank plan was based on a profile placing Japan's annual coal consumption at 27,000,000 tons "7,000,000 tons of which will be supplied by British Columbia and Alberta," Mr. Bonner said.

ULTIMATE AIM

"That's the ultimate target," the attorney-general told the house.

"Contacts are currently under negotiation in Japan," Mr. Bonner said. W. R. Prentice, executive vice-president of Crown Coal Industries Ltd., of Fernie, B.C., is in Tokyo discussing a contract with Japanese coal industrial officials calling for the export of 2,000,000 tons of coal a year to Japan.

Mr. Bonner, also commercial transport minister, said suggestions that establishment of such a port authority is beyond the jurisdiction of the provincial government had raised speculation in Japan "that British Columbia can not provide an exit."

CONFUSION

"This has thrown a great deal of confusion on negotiations," Mr. Bonner said.

"It has seriously jeopardized these negotiations," Mr. Bonner said the Roberts Bank development, the provincial government had raised speculation in Japan "that British Columbia can not provide an exit."

Mr. Sinclair said earlier this week there are legal and economic barriers to the coal company's plans to ship over a Great Northern Railway line through the U.S. to a proposed new superport at Roberts Bank, 20 miles south of here.

CONFIDENT

Mr. Prentice said his company is completely confident there are no legal obstacles preventing shipment via the American railway.

"The economy of the whole Crownst area is dependent upon our industry," said Mr. Prentice. "This may be our only chance to secure millions of additional export dollars for the good of the Crownst area, British Columbia and Canada."

Strains and Sprains

Despite what legislative press gallery reporters called their "greatly improved" effort, MLAs won Strains and Sprains trophy Friday in their annual volleyball clash at YMCA, two games to one. Among winners, Herb Capozzi in foreground and John Tisdalle behind him go for ball which Leslie Peterson waits for pass. — (Ian McKain)

Federal-Provincial Project

Welfare Plan Signed

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

The new Canada Assistance Plan for a comprehensive federal-provincial general assistance program for welfare services was formally signed Friday by Welfare Minister Campbell.

The new plan will provide for the first time ever for federal sharing in the costs for maintenance of dependent children and medical services and drugs for people on social assistance. These expenditures, which will amount to an estimated $3,235,000 and $5,450,000 respectively during the new fiscal year starting April 1, were borne entirely by the province in the past.

The Canada Assistance Plan will also replace a patchwork of old federal-provincial cost sharing agreements with a single framework for a new approach to public assistance.

Ottawa is expected to contribute about $25,000,000 of the more than $80,000,000 which will be spent under this plan.

Welfare Minister Campbell welcomed the new scheme, but with two notable exceptions, as he placed his signature to the document which is to be returned to National Health and Welfare Minister Allan MacEachen.

TROUBLE AHEAD

"The first reservation we have," he said, hinting there may be trouble ahead, is that the Canada Assistance Plan will be good only until March, 1969, with an escape clause that Ottawa could withdraw upon one year's notice.

The minister also said the plan does not provide for the influx of new immigrants who may end up on the welfare rolls of this province.

Accordingly, Mr. Campbell attached an addendum to the document which will be sent to Ottawa, that "this agreement is accepted on the basis that it is hoped a satisfactory net immigration formula will be reached between" Ottawa and B.C.

FURTHER STEPS

The possibility that further negotiations can be carried out on a welfare portability clause was contained in a letter from Mr. MacEachen to Premier Bennett last month. The current imbalance of migration could cost B.C. about $2,000,000 per year.

The old federal-provincial 50-50 cost sharing Unemployment Assistance Act will be incorporated into the broader Canada Assistance Plan, and federal child welfare payments will be retroactive to April 1, 1966.

GOOD TYPE

"We consider this a good type of federal-provincial sharing program and we welcome the opportunity to co-operate with the federal government," Mr. Campbell said.

But he labelled an earlier charge by Liberal leader Ray Perrault that the cash inflow from Ottawa might be diverted into B.C. Hydro power projects as "nothing but a public mischief."

At the Legislature

MLAs Approve Consumer Bill

The government's bill for a consumer protection act received second reading approval in principle from all sides of the legislature Friday, but not before individual MLAs had voiced some criticisms.

Alex Macdonald (NDP, Vancouver-East) said, "The legislation should be supported because it goes at least half way."

Mr. Macdonald said no provision was made to ensure truthful advertising, legitimate packaging or protection against sales gimmickery.

DOOR POINT

Alan Macfarlane (L. Oak Bay) said no direct provision was made in the proposed act to cancel contracts involving "door-to-door service salesmen."

Attorney-General Bonner said this category was not directly named in an attempt to give some degree of uniformity with legislation in other provinces. Amendments might be brought in later.

The cabinet should investigate pollution of the sea by the Crofton pulp mill south of Nanaimo, John Tisdalle, (S.C. Saanich and the Islands) told the B.C. legislature Friday.

"The Crofton mill, although a great asset to the community, has created a hazard on the beaches," he said during debate on second reading of a new pollution control bill.

The mill is preparing to extend its facilities "and dump even more waste liquor (chemical) into the water," he said.

He questioned the benefit of

Minimum Wages Increased

A new minimum wage order governing the hotel and catering industry has been issued by the Board of Industrial Relations, Labor Minister Peterson announced Friday.

The order establishes the minimum wage of $1.10 an hour from May 1 and $1.25 an hour effective Nov. 1.

The order replaces current hotel and catering minimum wages of $1 per hour and less during the first three months of employment. It also provides for overtime of time and one-half for hours worked in excess of eight in one day and forty in one week.

Mr. Peterson said the order affects about 25,000 employees in B.C.

Students Didn't Return

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says about 4,500 school students in the Montreal area didn't return to their classrooms following this year's Quebec teachers' strike.

The French-language daily said Thursday that 2,125 had been in secondary school and 2,475 were at the primary level.

They represent a small percentage of Montreal's 217,324 French- and English-speaking Roman Catholic school children, the newspaper says.

Some 9,000 Roman Catholic teachers in Montreal were on strike against the Montreal Catholic School Commission from Jan. 13 to Feb. 20. Along with about 3,000 other striking teachers in the province they were ordered back into their classrooms by strike-ending legislation passed by the Quebec government shortly before Feb. 20.

Easter Announcement

Cabinet Finance Post Hinted

OTTAWA (CP) — Changes in the federal cabinet, expected to be announced during Parliament's Easter holiday, may include creation of a new cabinet post connected with the finance department.

Whoever fills the position will have to concentrate on the recent report of the Carter royal commission on taxation, a source close to the cabinet said Friday.

Mentioned as a candidate for the possible new post is Jean Chretien, 33, a Quebec MP who now is parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Sharp.

The Carter commission recommended sweeping changes in Canada's tax structure. Its report was tabled in the Commons Feb. 24.

The government is due to announce in the next few weeks the procedures under which it will seek the views of the public concerning the recommendations.

The new cabinet member may bear the title of minister without portfolio attached to the finance department, or associate minister of finance.

He would have the duty of collecting the views of persons or groups interested in voicing opinions about the report of the commission, which was headed by Kenneth Carter of Toronto.

He also would have to weigh the political repercussions of the proposed changes.

The government is reported to be planning establishment of a special group of officials for close study of the recommendations.

A cabinet reshuffle might affect at least two present cabinet members—Guy Favreau, president of the Privy Council and registrar general, and Justice Minister Lucien Chénier.

Besides Mr. Chénier, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, MP for Montreal Mount Royal, has been mentioned as a possible appointee to a reshuffled cabinet. He now is parliamentary secretary to the prime minister.

Other names mentioned as cabinet possibilities include that of Bryce Mackasey, MP for the Montreal-area constituency of Verdun, now the Liberal whip.

Palm Day Theme On Sunday

In City Churches

Palm Sunday will be observed in Greater Victoria churches this Sunday with special services, special music and, in some cases, Easter cantatas.

At Garden City United Church it will be an ecumenical Sunday, musically speaking. The combined choirs of Wilkeson Road and Garden City United Churches will present Stainer's Crucifixion at 7:30 p.m.

Also taking part will be singers from St. Paul's United in Sidney, from the Seventh-day Adventist Church and from Centennial United. Soloists are Marlon Campbell, soprano; Hazel Nunn, mezzo; George Roberts, bass; Kenneth Nelson, bass; and Helge Holmberg, tenor. Mrs. Ruth Powell will conduct and the organist is David Boone.

At First United Church, the University of Victoria choir will sing at the 7:30 p.m. service under the direction of Charles Palmer. At 9:30 and 11 a.m. services the secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the church, Rev. "Their lives are without purpose and dedication says denominational leader E. L. Minchin.

Pastor Minchin is associate secretary of the general conference of the church in Washington, D.C., and is a specialist in youth evangelism.

His message will be delivered by Pastor Gordon Smedley of Nanaimo at 4 p.m. today in Matthew Hudson argued with city's parking bylaw is invalid because it refers to one, five, 10 and 25-cent pieces while meters refer to pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters. Magistrate F. B. Baker agreed and ruled the bylaw invalid but police continued to ticket pending an appeal. One of the first cars they hit was Hudson's.

At Royal Oak

Orchestra, Choir Pleasing

By BERT BINNY

The Peninsula concert orchestra and Metcovich choir group combined to give a large audience at Royal Oak School a pleasant evening Friday.

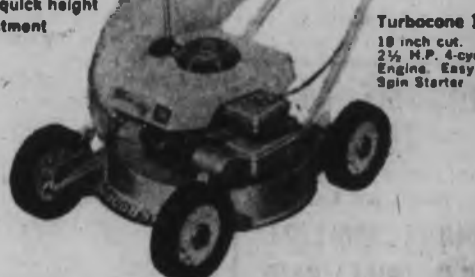

Audience reaction gave the orchestra the edge. The choir group tried hard but didn't achieve full effect until the second half of the program.

The orchestra is both versatile in performance and catholic in taste. It has a bold, robust brass section which invariably pulled its weight.

Both the orchestra, which has grown considerably since last year, and the chorus are directed by Derek McDermid. The former is a part of the Saanich school board's night school and plays again Monday evening at the concert, Music For All Ages, at Oak Bay junior high school.

Campus Guidebook Rare

Students Judge Instructors

By BILL STAVDAL
University of Victoria students will publish an academic guidebook which assesses faculty, teaching methods and course content.
On Friday students began answering a four-page, 30-item questionnaire distributed in most classrooms.

The academic guidebook will be published in June for the benefit of students enrolling next September, said Tom Paul.

A four-year science student, who is one of five members of the academic guidebook committee.
Most faculty members are co-operating in distribution of the questionnaire in class, said Mr. Paul.

Several years ago a partial assessment of courses and lecturers at the former Victoria College created a furor.

Mr. Paul said the project has been given tacit approval of the UVic administration.

SOME MEMBERS
Chief opposition has come from some members of the faculty of education, Mr. Paul said. One reportedly told his students they were in effect incompetent to judge their teachers and courses.

"I think the students are competent to judge," Mr. Paul said, "in the sense that they are the ones being taught, and they have all been through at least 12 years of the education system."

MAJORITY REPORT
He conceded some students might make malicious attacks on a professor. But the majority report from the whole class will give the true picture, he argued.

Teaching staff have been asked to allow students to fill in the form in class so that hostile cliques won't team up to "get" anybody, Mr. Paul noted.

Students are being asked to fill in one form for every class they attend.

ABOUT 15,000
About 15,000 completed forms will be processed and collated this spring by senior students. A review committee will assess their judgements.

The project was initiated by Stephen Bigsby, immediate past president of the student council. Its stated aim is to provide feedback to the faculty so they can better assess their curriculum, and also to guide students in choosing courses.

Sample questions:
● How valuable are the lectures to your understanding of the subject matter?
● What are the good and/or bad points of the professor's delivery?

● Does the course stress original thinking rather than the acquisition of factual material?
● What changes, if any, would you make to improve the course?

Pupils Hear Politicians

A student-sponsored political meeting in Victoria senior high school Thursday drew the support of principal, district superintendent and chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board.

About 300 of the school's 1,340 students listened to and fired questions at four B.C. politicians during the noon-hour panel.

Expo Ride Pony Express

Two Greater Victoria riders will start from the B.C. legislative buildings next Wednesday on the first leg of "the longest pony express ride in the history of horsemen," from Victoria to Expo 67 in Montreal.

Heather Rimmer of the Colwood Trail Riders and Floyd Adams of the B.C. Appaloosa Club will pick up the scroll at the parliament buildings and carry it for the first two miles.

OTHER RIDERS
Other riders, carrying it two miles each, will be Dave Caldwell, Dave Adams, Gordon Jackson and Alice House of the Appaloosa Club; Harold Rimmer, Jerry North and Bruce Borden of the Trail Riders; Ed Copeland and Lyle and Eva Barr of the Western Horsemen's Club; Richard Cook and Neil MacDonald of the Garden City Horsemen's Club; Bill Scafe of the U-Tree Highlanders Horsemen's Club and Coleen Hague of the Sunset Riding Club.

At Mile 32, Duncan horsemen will take over the scroll.

QUESTION TIME
Students quizzed Dr. McGeer on LSD and asked Mr. Loffmark about changes on the Workmen's Compensation Act. Mr. Smith told the students to involve themselves in politics.

The meeting is believed first of its kind in Greater Victoria high schools. The subject of politics in the schools has aroused controversy in the past, but lowering of the provincial voting age to 19 has increased student pressure for political debate as a part of education.

Duncan Lorimer, principal of Victoria high school said members of the Student International Research Club asked him for permission to hold the meeting. He consulted district superintendent Joseph Chell, who agreed with him that a four-way debate was a good idea.

"Some of them are 19 now and old enough to vote," said Mr. Lorimer later.

"The more they know about politics, the better it will be for all of us," Mr. Chell commented.

"These people are maturing rapidly. They should get all sides of political questions." Board chairman Peter Bunn, who in the past has been voted down on allowing politics in the schools, declared he was "delighted."

"If there's one thing we need, it's an informed electorate," he said. "This is the way to start."

Socreds Spell Out Policy

EDMONTON (CP) — A new statement of Social Credit policy, with heavy emphasis on the importance of private enterprise and the dignity of the individual, is contained in a white paper tabled in the legislature Friday.

The paper, along with 13 volumes of supporting information, was tabled by Premier E. C. Manning, who called it the "most significant and important document produced in more than 30 years in government."

Non-Partisan

At a news conference, Mr. Manning said that although the paper represents government policy, he hoped the public would not criticize in a negative fashion, but produce better alternatives instead.

He said the paper is a re-alignment with emphasis on social rather than physical aspects.

The paper itself says it is "a non-partisan document, intended for all citizens, irrespective of party affiliation, who desire a cessation of political hostilities among those who hold in common the ideals and aspirations underlying the policies and programs" it outlines.

His Pleas

The paper strongly reflects Premier Manning's frequent public pleas for a re-alignment of political organization in Canada and at one point notes:

"There is developing a great weariness on the part of the Canadian people relative to the continual wrangling, pettiness, and selfishness of party politics."

The paper says the government will avoid involvement in any economic functions which it feels are better performed by individuals and associations.

It supports domestic free trade within the country and welcomes knowledge and capital to Alberta both from other parts of Canada and abroad.

Equal Rights

The paper also says the government will attempt to persuade the federal government to negotiate an agreement allowing Indians under federal jurisdiction to receive the same facilities and services available to others. It would allow Indians and Metis under provincial jurisdiction the same rights.

It calls for high productivity for industrial capital which, it says, must be generated and managed by the private sector of the economy.

The government considers it desirable to increase the number of Albertans holding equity stock in local and national industry. It even proposes a slogan:

"Every Albertan a shareholder."

Servicemen block for running mate

Leprechaun in Lens? Snappy Subjects Run

OTTAWA (CP)—It was St. Patrick's Day and a day for the wearing of the green on Parliament Hill Friday for three camera-shy members of the armed forces.

An officer and two non-commissioned officers, all turned out in new bottle-green, walking-out uniforms, were posing on the Hill for an RCAF photographer Friday afternoon when a Canadian Press cameraman arrived on the scene.

As Peter Gregg raised his camera and pointed it at the three servicemen there was an excited scramble as the men in green were hurried into greatcoats and a man in army uniform moved to block the photographer's view.

A civilian who appeared to be in charge of the RCAF picture-taking operation moved forward and told Gregg: "You can't take pictures here."

Gregg did, but all he got was a closeup of the protective soldier and a rear view of one of the green-clad figures as he pulled on his coat.

That ended the picture-snapping-for everybody.

Asked by a reporter why the RCAF was taking pictures of men in green uniforms—could it be because it was St. Patrick's Day?—the man in civvies declined to reply.

There has been widespread speculation that green would be the color for all service uniforms once the government's bill to unify the forces passes Parliament. The bill is still before a Commons committee.

A defence department spokesman said the uniforms are test uniforms, but not necessarily the ones that eventually will be used. Tests were being conducted on one basic type of uniform with several variations and will continue this summer.

Canadian Auto Workers

Parity Pay Target

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Walter Reuther, international president of the United Auto Workers, said Friday the UAW has a mandate to obtain wage parity this year for Canadian car workers with Americans.

"The Canadian auto worker works for the same company, does the same job, builds the same cars but gets less pay than his American brother," he said.

"He is going to get the same pay—it's that simple," Reuther told cheering delegates at the UAW's 12th international skilled-trades conference.

WON'T SIGN

At a news conference, Reuther said the UAW will not sign 1967 contracts that do not include a guaranteed annual income, equal pay for Canadian workers and a substantial wage increase.

George Burt, Canadian director of 105,000 UAW members, said his workers receive 40 cents to $1 an hour less than American workers.

Assembly workers in Canadian plants of General Motors receive $2.70 an hour, he said in an interview, while GM assembly workers in the U.S. get $3.10 an hour.

"But a Canadian shareholder of GM gets the same dividend as an American GM shareholder," Burt said. "There's no reason why the workers shouldn't get the same wages."

Canadian contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Nov. 25, two months after the American contracts lapse.

GOVERNMENT SIGNS

But Burt said there are "signs" the Canadian government will oppose wage parity.

He quoted Prime Minister Pearson as saying that parity for auto workers is not feasible and would seriously affect the Canadian economy.

Loner Steals Big Trawler

HALIFAX (CP)—A lone mariner stole a fishing trawler Friday and escaped to the high seas when a pursuing vessel was forced to turn back.

The trawler Cape Spray, apparently in the hands of only one man, continued to steam away from the coast Friday night following a daring and skillful manoeuvre in the pre-dawn darkness of Lockeport, N.S. harbor.

A coast guard vessel, carrying RCMP officers, was forced to head back for shore when her fuel ran low. The cutter Rapid was within 25 miles of the 102-foot Cape Spray when she turned back.

The trawler was fully provisioned and her fuel tanks were full.

J. A. Y. MacDonald, Nova Scotia's deputy attorney-general, said RCMP officers had the right to pursue the vessel but this pursuit could not be carried out indefinitely. The question of RCMP jurisdiction was "pretty vague."

The provincial attorney-general's department said the legal situation was "vague."

A spokesman for the Cape Spray's owners said that if one man managed to move the vessel from her wharf and out through the harbor to the open sea it would be "the most magnificent feat ever accomplished in the history of the Maritimes fishing fleet."

Capt. Kenneth Wambach, 26-year-old skipper of the Cape Spray, said his vessel normally carried a crew of 10 and at least four were used when the ship was cleared from her wharf. The crew was asleep ashore when the vessel was stolen.

The theft recalled the 1938 theft of a British trawler. The Girl Pat was stolen from Grimby, England, by a lone seaman who sailed her to the West Indies before giving himself up to face charges of piracy.

Landreville

House Holds Fate

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in Canadian history, a parliamentary committee has recommended the removal of a high court judge for being "unfit."

A special Commons-Senate committee recommended with "great regret" Friday that both houses of Parliament pass an address to the Governor-General for the ouster of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville from the Ontario Supreme Court.

The government is expected to introduce the necessary resolutions in both houses after the Easter recess. Commons passage appears certain but opinion is more divided in the Senate.

FOUR AGAINST

Four of the six senators on the committee are believed to have voted against the majority recommendation at secret meetings Wednesday and Thursday night. The two other senators and all the MPs present supported the report.

The terse report said Mr. Justice Landreville "has proven himself unfit for the proper exercise of his judicial functions."

OWN TESTIMONY

This finding was based on the judge's own sworn testimony at 11 committee sessions and on the royal commission report submitted last August by Ivan Rand, retired member of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The judge admitted he re-

SFU Roars Yes To Boycott Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 2,000 Simon Fraser University students roared approval Friday for a plan to boycott classes Monday for an indefinite duration unless five fired teaching assistants are reinstated.

Stan Wong, president of the SFU students' council, read a copy of a letter and resolution drafted at an emergency meeting of the council Friday morning to a mass meeting of students at the noon hour.

NO CONDITIONS

The resolution asked the SFU board of governors to immediately and unconditionally reinstate the five teaching assistants. It said if the governors fail to do so, the council will call for immediate boycott action by the university's 4,200 students.

At the same time, the Simon Fraser Faculty Association urged the university's board of governors to reconsider the dismissals, which the teachers' group said should be made only on the basis of academic incompetence. The faculty association named a liaison committee to work with the student council on the matter.

Meanwhile, university president Patrick McTaggart-Cowan said he expected the fired teaching assistants to appeal the decision and he was prepared to convene a board of governors meeting to consider an appeal.

"In view of this appeal situation, I hope the students will realize over the weekend that there is a democratic process."

Homecoming Cancelled By Powell

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adam Clayton Powell Friday called off his much-heralded return to Harlem Sunday because he feared his Negro followers would touch off rioting if he were arrested on a criminal warrant.

The free-wheeling, high-living Powell made the announcement at a news conference at his Bimini retreat in the Bahamas shortly after he made a secret flight to Miami to consult with lawyers.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Clay L. Shaw, wealthy retired business executive, Friday was ordered to stand trial on a charge of conspiring to murder President John Kennedy. The ruling followed a four-day preliminary hearing requested by District Attorney Jim Garrison.

A three-judge criminal District Court tribunal ruled unanimously that Garrison presented sufficient evidence to warrant a trial for Shaw.

The highlight of the hearing was Perry R. Russo's testimony that he heard Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie plotting in September, 1963, to assassinate Kennedy.

FRAUGHT WITH HEARSAY

The Warren commission report, which said Oswald acted alone in the assassination of Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963, was not admitted as evidence after Judge Bernard Bagert said it was "fraught with hearsay."

Shaw rugged and erect at 54, sat smoking impassively when the decision was announced. His lined face was haggard.

Judge Bagert said Garrison had presented sufficient evidence "to justify bringing into play further steps of the criminal court."

Shaw remains free on $10,000 bond. Garrison arrested him on murder conspiracy charges March 1. A decorated Second World War army major, Shaw retired in October, 1965, as managing director of the International Trade Mart here.

The decision came exactly one month after the first disclosure that Garrison was probing the Kennedy assassination. The prosecutor said he launched the investigation last October.

Shaw called Garrison's charge "fantastic" and denied knowing Oswald or having any part in a conspiracy. U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark said the FBI cleared Shaw of any link to the Kennedy assassination.

KNEW FERRIE

Defence Lawyer William Wegmann said in final argument Friday "the only worthy thing of Russo's testimony is that he knew David Ferrie and feared his intelligence.... This man (Shaw) is entitled to have the stigma removed from him."

Toddler Wedged In Well

VOTAW, Tex. (UPI)—A 3-year-old girl who became curious about an abandoned well in her grandmother's back yard slipped and fell into the well Friday night and skidded 28 feet before coming wedged between the narrowing walls.

The girl, Teresa Fregia, survived the fall. Drilling equipment was summoned from Houston, about 72 miles away, to aid in rescue efforts.

The girl lives with her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Davis, in a house next door to her grandmother, Mrs. Opal Alemeage.

"Just about everybody in the country is out here digging," said a neighbor of the Davises, Mrs. Evelyn Warren.

"She is all right so far—she's still talking," Mr. Alemeage said. "They're pumping oxygen down to her."

Spy-in-Sky Whisper Still Echoing

WASHINGTON (LAT)—President Johnson lowered his voice to a whisper in Nashville, Tenn., this week to say a few words about spy satellites and the echo has been reverberating through Washington since.

The president said that if the American space program during the past 10 years had cost 10 times more than the $30,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 invested, it would be worth it "simply for the photography."

"I don't want to be quoted on this," the president told an audience of southern educators in the cosy drawing room of Tennessee Governor Buford Ellington's mansion. He then proceeded to let the audience in on just how effective the American spy satellites have been.

"If we had no justification (for the space program) other than photography, it would be worth 10 times more," the president said.

"Before we had the photography, our guesses were way off. We were doing things that we didn't need to do."

Because of the satellites, he said, "I know how many missiles the enemy has."

Presumably the president was saying that spy satellites had been successful beyond the experts' earlier hopes in pinpointing Soviet and Chinese military installations.

The president's remarks, though made to an audience of more than 125 persons from throughout the South, were immediately put off the record by White House press secretary George Christian. There were only a handful of reporters in the audience.

The remarks have since been published.

The digression about the space program came in a long, rambling, sentimental talk by the president.

Easter Seals Vital

DUNCAN — All services of the B.C. Society for Crippled Children have been expanded during the past year and about 700 handicapped children are carried in the society's Easter Seal buses every day, said R. J. Everett of Duncan.

He is the chairman of the Duncan and district Easter Seal campaign.

He and Dave Cochrane, also of Duncan, returned from a recent society meeting held at Vancouver.

Mr. Everett said "The driver of the year award was given to Frank G. Elston of Victoria who has been driving an Easter Seal bus for the past six and a half years without accident."

Another Victoria man, E. E. Chamberlin was presented with an honorary life membership "For his many years of service for crippled children in the province."

The local Easter Seal campaign is organized and handled by the Duncan Lions Club.

Mr. Everett said "We urge everyone to use Easter Seals to enable the society to extend its services to every crippled child in the province."

Cash Comes Forth

NORTH COWICHAN — Duncan-Cowichan Chamber President Dick Benzie and two of his directors appealed successfully to North Cowichan council to have their annual grant increased from $125 to $500.

Making his sales pitch Mr. Benzie said the tourist information centre at Duncan gobbles up 85 per cent of the chamber's revenue, and without grant increases from the municipality and the city of Duncan, it would be impossible to keep the bureau open.

The suggestion to increase the grant for the Duncan chamber came from Coun. Gerry Smith who said the tourist information centre "is providing a good public service for the whole area."

"There is no question about it," added Coun. Margaret Robertson.

New PWA System Shown on Run

COMOX — Civic officials, chamber of commerce representatives, RCAF personnel and members of the press were guests of PWA in the inaugural flight of a new jet service.

Groups from Powell River, Courtenay and Campbell River were taken for a half hour flight.

The new plane went into operation Friday afternoon as part of the expanding service of Pacific Western Airways which links northern Vancouver Island, Powell River and the Comox Valley and Vancouver.

Guests aboard the Comair aircraft were invited to note the spaciousness of the interior, the fast rate of ascent and the flying speed of the plane all designed to promote passenger comfort and speed of travel.

PWA took over from the Queen Charlotte Airlines and has maintained a steady pattern of growth in its services offered to the travelling public.

Sherburn

By JOHN MOORE

UNION BAY — Harry Sherburn has met life head-on through all of his 75 years. He still feels that just to be in this world is an exciting experience.

He was born in the Fairfield District of Victoria on November 30, 1891. He grew up in a Victoria that is now long gone.

The massive buildings of

The Women Were Roped Off Like Cattle

If You Paid Your Dollar You Could Take Your Pick

the old Hudson Bay Post, framed by hand-hewn logs, still stood in the Fairfield District, and Harry recalls playing basketball there with the neighborhood kids.

It was a Victoria in which the rigid requirements of English social usage clashed with American-style saloons which sold beer at a nickel a scoop, with a free lunch thrown in.

It was a Victoria which was home port for the sealing fleet which sailed into the far reaches of the North Pacific seeking the rich harvest of fur seals.

Harry recalls seeing the Inner Harbor full of schooners lying at anchor while the prototypes of Jack London's notorious Sea Wolf prowled the streets of the town.

"Government Street was the main street," says Harry. "From there down to the waterfront was the scum of the earth — she was tougher than hell."

But the winds of change were blowing.

Young Sherburn, along with much of Victoria's population, watched as a dredge pumped gravel from the sea-bottom into a tide-flat area to provide a site for the original Empress Hotel.

Victoria had an affinity with

San Francisco and when the time came for Harry Sherburn to move along he naturally gravitated to the city by the Golden Gate.

This was 1912 and San Francisco's fabulous Chinatown and notorious Barbary Coast were still going strong.

"You wouldn't believe unless you actually saw it," says Harry. "You'd go into one of those joints and see the women roped off the cattle. If you paid a dollar you could take your pick."

In 1921, with his wife and child he moved to Union Bay and made it his permanent home. Those were the days when management held total power. A man could lose his job because of a careless word or at the whim of a foreman.

Out of this condition, coupled with the low wages and idle days of the depression years, developed the urge to form a union.

"It was a tricky business," said Harry. "Just a whisper of what we were doing and we would be on the street. We had to do it under cover and meet in each other's homes."

Harry Sherburn had an intense interest in politics.

"Never missed a meeting," he says, "no matter whose it was."

"I liked to argue about politics. I'd try to find out what the other guy was thinking and then argue against him — just for the hell of it."

Residents Win

Log Storage Denied At Gowlland

CAMPBELL RIVER—Residents of Quadra Island won total victory in the Gowlland Harbor fight: No log storage will be allowed.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said waters around Stag and Doe Islands in the heart of the harbor will not be used for log storage, as requested by Elk Falls Pulp Mill.

The pulp mill wanted 78 acres of storage leases around the two small islands.

Residents were worried about the loss of recreation area in the completely sheltered harbor three miles from downtown Campbell River.

Petitions were fired off to Victoria, and a public hearing was held.

One of the protests came from a children's camp that has used the waters for 15 years. Another was from Campbell River Pollution Control Society.

That society said there would be harmful effect to keep beds and to fish life.

This harbor is unique in the area. It is protected in all weather, and does not get driftwood that bothers residents of other beaches.

Small boat navigation is becoming popular in Gowlland Harbor.

Miner Called

CAMPBELL RIVER — A summons to Western Mines president Charles Campbell to appear in court Monday, has been put off for two weeks.

The matter has held over at the request of Brian McLaughlin, lawyer for the mining company.

Western Mines has been summoned to answer a charge laid by David Campbell, commissioner of the Campbell River Water Board, that the company:

"Had unlawfully and wilfully discharge waste material into the water of Myra Creek, without a permit from the Pollution Control Board."

Pollution Fighters Back Buttle Show

PORT ALBERNI — Members of the Alberni Valley Citizens' Committee on Pollution will support the Campbell River Pollution group's demonstration at the legislative buildings on Monday.

Colin Wilson, president of the committee, said he had been asked by Ken Forde of Campbell River for backing in the march to protest the seepage from Western Mines.

"This is no longer purely Campbell River's fight. What happens there affects every community in B.C., and possibly in Canada," Mr. Wilson stated.

"If they get away with this, they will definitely be giving other permits to other mines in other areas."

Mr. Wilson also protested remarks by Ray Williston, Minister of Lands and Forests, on a recent television newscast, justifying the position of the provincial government on the Stellako River problem.

More News Of Island On Page 8

"How Mr. Williston can possibly justify the log drives on the Stellako after the pictures of the damage resulting, it beyond me," Mr. Wilson said.

"The B.C. Research Council, on whose findings Mr. Williston apparently based his justification, receives most of its support from the forest industry."

"That's why Campbell River is asking the support of people here."

"They must win, or there'll be more Buttle Lakes, just as there will be Stellako rivers, all over the province."

Mr. Wilson agreed that the new legislation on pollution looked as though it might be good, and possibly effective.

"But any legislation is only as effective as the government's enforcement of it," Mr. Wilson claimed.

"Frankly, from personal experience, such as the trouble at Buttle Lake and our own pollution problem, I have no complete faith that the government will take appropriate action to see the new legislation is upheld."

Mr. Wilson said he himself had to be in Victoria on Monday on personal business, but would join local delegates and others protesting at the legislative steps at 12:30 p.m.

Compromise For Game?

NORTH COWICHAN—There may be a compromise in the Maple Mountain hunting controversy.

Squire Hits Delay

PORT ALBERNI — The delay in Workmen's Compensation reform is "disgusting," said IWA official and former MLA John Squire.

"We've already waited five years for the completion of the investigation of compensation needs."

"Now I personally feel, and I know it is the opinion of thousands of workers who have waited so long, that this is a disgraceful situation," Mr. Squire said.

Over his years of work as a union executive, and in his capacity as MLA, dozens of people have turned to Mr. Squire annually with their compensation problems.

He listed basic problems and areas in which he felt changes should be made to make the compensation board more equitable and more effective.

1966 adjustments in pay rates mean that area is now reasonably well taken care of, Mr. Squire felt, but basic problems remain.

"Previously, when the board made a decision, it never had to give a reason," Mr. Squire stated. "Often it has been most difficult to contest a case, since the client did not know on what basis, or for what specific reason, his claim had been denied."

Financial assistance should also be available to workers travelling long distances to appeal their cases, Mr. Squire suggested.

A special committee will study a suggestion by Reeve Donald Morton that hunting be allowed for a certain period in the park.

The committee will make a proposal at the next meeting of municipal council.

Two spokesmen from fish and game groups spoke, and were opposed by five letters from residents who attacked any move to allow hunting on Maple Mountain.

Hunting spokesmen were Arnie Williams of Cowichan Fish and Game Association and Ed Mankelov, president of the Vancouver Island Wildlife Association. They said Maple Mountain should not be turned into a wildlife sanctuary.

Mr. Williams said turning Maple Mountain into a wildlife reserve would result in an intolerable explosion of the deer population, large winter kills and the attraction of cougars.

Mr. Mankelov said experts are advising against the creation of such sanctuaries because herds would increase too rapidly.

From letters council learned: Chorus Line and Gun Club suggests allowing hunting only for three months but it would be opposed to closing Maple Mountain to hunters.

Mrs. Margaret Whittaker said at no time is any one really safe from bullets, recreation on this site would be hampered, and she would be willing to have a wildlife sanctuary extend across her farm.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Carberry, who own 150 acres in that area, said, "For the past two years we have had difficulty in keeping hunters out of our property."

Two forest fires had to be extinguished because of broken beer bottles lying on the ground, fences were cut down and "fear for the lives of our children made it necessary to curtail their riding."

Elizabeth McKinnon said, "During the hunting season there is nowhere near where one can enjoy the outdoors without fear of becoming the target of some trigger-happy hunter."

Coun. Dennis Hogan told council the North Cowichan Recreation Commission suggested the status quo for the Maple Mountain area should be retained, which would allow hunting throughout the year, because legally rabbits and crows can be shot at any time.

Mr. Mankelov said his group would agree to allow hunting only during the hunting season.

Pulp-Sulphite Undemocratic Claims Official of IWA

PORT ALBERNI—The IWA is a democratic union, but lack of autonomy in the Pulp-Sulphite union has brought the major split that hampers it today, claims a woodworkers official.

Maurice Corbell, executive officer of Local 185, IWA, said his union has far less trouble with its democratic structure than troubles in the pulp union, where there is "a lack of autonomy for rank and file members."

He was replying to statements by Jim Spencer, an executive officer of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, here.

Mr. Spencer said the IWA should not contemplate raiding other unions, until it can produce a good master agreement for its own membership.

But Mr. Corbell claimed the working conditions enjoyed by IWA men are superior to conditions in pulp mills.

"We could very easily get more than the 8-cent hourly difference if we were willing to accept pulp mill conditions for our members," said Mr. Corbell.

Democracy

"Mr. Spencer blames Syd Thompson for alleged trouble in the IWA, no doubt because of Mr. Thompson's outspoken manner, which at times has given concern to the IWA."

"However, it should be understood that Mr. Thompson is within his rights to be outspoken, as our organization is a democratic three-level structure, which gives IWA local unions full autonomy."

Big Split

"It is our opinion that if the IWA has had any trouble because of this structure, then our troubles are far less than those at present existing in the ranks of the Pulp Sulphite Union because of its two-level structure and the lack of autonomy for the rank and file members of that union, which in our opinion is the reason for the split in that union today."

Mr. Corbell explained that in the Woodworkers union, the three levels, local, regional and international executives are all elected by rank and file members.

No Ballot

In the Pulp Sulphite Union, he claimed, only local union officials are elected.

Those at the regional level are appointed by those at the international level, or consist of international vice-presidents elected only by delegates, not voted on by the bulk of the membership.

"Statistics prove loggers are the highest average paid workers in the industry, then come the shingle mill workers, both higher paid than pulp mill workers."

Whose Fault?

"We fail to understand this attack on the IWA by the Pulp-Sulphite Union because we are not attempting to raid any of their operations."

Appeal to Cabinet Rides Rocky Road

By MARIE CADORETTE

LAKE COWICHAN — Residents in this area continue to suffer from two old wounds — 30 miles of narrow, treacherous road, and inadequate flood control measures.

Lack of government action on the Lake Cowichan Highway has caused some to wonder if election promises made only a few months ago by Highways Minister Gagliardi were nothing more than gusts of wind.

President of the Lake Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, Norman Webb said, "there is remarkable connection between elections and road building."

"Mr. Gagliardi promised a new, improved Lake Cowichan Road at the last election."

"We are sitting here with nothing being done."

Countless letters have been sent to the highways minister. The last letter inquiring about the nature of "current" improvements was sent three weeks ago. The chamber is still waiting for a reply.

Mr. Webb said, "we have had the usual run-around and nothing else."

He said the chamber does not intend to give up.

"The only resource we have is to keep needing the MLA."

"The revenue the government derives from this road would pay for the cost of repairs."

"But we have had so many surveys you could call this the training road for surveyors."

To date about $100,000 have been spent on improvements.

These consist of a half-mile of pavement commonly known as the Paldi Straight Stretch, attempts at clearing, and numerous patch jobs.

Tenders for the clearing of brush were called last year but no word has been released on the matter.

Chairman of the chamber's road committee Adam Kral remarked "It is just political now. Mr. Gagliardi is fully aware of the problem."

LADYSMITH—This town will soon have chlorinated water.

School Lands

LADYSMITH — An important meeting will be held soon between town council, the school board and the recreation commission.

Subject of this meeting will be public use of school facilities for recreation.

There has been some dispute over the years about use of school facilities.

Waterworks chairman Ald. Bob Stillin asked for a two-week study of the plans, so he could report to council later.

There has been pressure for several years by the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit to get a chlorinator at Ladysmith.

Servicemen block for running mate, right

Leprechaun in Lens? Snappy Subjects Run

OTTAWA (CP)—It was St. Patrick's Day and a day for the wearing of the green on Parliament Hill Friday for three camera-shy members of the armed forces.

An officer and two non-commissioned officers, all turned out in new bottle-green, walking-out uniforms, were posing on the Hill for an RCAF photographer Friday afternoon when a Canadian Press cameraman arrived on the scene.

As Peter Bregg raised his camera and pointed it at the three servicemen there was an excited scramble as the men in green were hurried into greatcoats and a man in army uniform moved to block the photographer's view.

A civilian who appeared to be in charge of the RCAF picture-taking operation moved forward and told Bregg: "You can't take pictures here."

Bregg did, but all he got was a closeup of the protective soldier and a rear view of one of the green-clad figures as he pulled on his coat.

That ended the picture-snapping for everybody.

Asked by a reporter why the RCAF was taking pictures of men in green uniforms—could it be because it was St. Patrick's Day?—the man in civvies declined to reply.

There has been widespread speculation that green would be the color for all service uniforms once the government's bill to unify the forces passes Parliament. The bill is still before a Commons committee.

A defence department spokesman said the uniforms are test uniforms, but not necessarily the ones that eventually will be used. Tests were being conducted on one basic type of uniform with several variations and will continue this summer.

Loner Steals Big Trawler

HALIFAX (CP)—A lone mariner stole a fishing trawler Friday and escaped to the high seas when a pursuing vessel was forced to turn back.

The trawler Cape Spry, apparently in the hands of only one man, continued to steam away from the coast Friday night following a daring and skilful manoeuvre in the pre-dawn darkness of Lunenburg, N.S. harbor.

A coast guard vessel, carrying RCMP officers, was forced to head back for shore when her fuel ran low. The cutter Rapid was within 25 miles of the 102-foot Cape Spry when she turned back.

The trawler was fully provisioned and her fuel tanks were full.

J. A. Y. MacDonald, Nova

Scotia's deputy attorney-general, said RCMP officers had the right to pursue the vessel but this pursuit could not be carried out indefinitely. The question of RCMP jurisdiction was "pretty vague."

The provincial attorney-general's department said the legal situation was "vague."

A spokesman for the Cape Spry's owners said that if one man managed to move the vessel from her wharf and out through the harbor to the open sea it would be "the most magnificent feat ever accomplished in the history of the Maritime fishing fleet."

Capt. Kenneth Wambach, 26-year-old skipper of the Cape Spry, said his vessel normally carried a crew of 10 and at least four were used when the ship was cleared from her wharf. The crew was asleep ashore when the vessel was stolen.

The theft recalled the 1938 theft of a British trawler. The Girl Pat was stolen from Grimsby, England, by a lone seaman who sailed her to the West Indies before giving himself up to face charges of piracy.

Landreville

House Holds Fate

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in Canadian history, a parliamentary committee has recommended the removal of a high court judge for being "unfit."

A special Commons-Senate committee recommended with "great regret" Friday that both houses of Parliament pass an address to the Governor-General for the ouster of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville from the Ontario Supreme Court.

The government is expected to introduce the necessary resolutions in both houses after the Easter recess. Commons passage appears certain but opinion is more divided in the Senate.

FOUR AGAINST

Four of the six senators on the committee are believed to have voted against the majority recommendation at secret meetings Wednesday and Thursday night. The two other senators and all the MPs present supported the report.

The terse report said Mr. Justice Landreville "has proven himself unfit for the proper exercise of his judicial functions."

OWN TESTIMONY
This finding was based on the judge's own sworn testimony at 11 committee sessions and on the royal commission report submitted last August by Ivan Rand, retired member of the Supreme Court of Canada. The judge admitted he re-

SFU Roars Yes To Boycott Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 2,000 Simon Fraser University students voted approval Friday for a plan to boycott classes Monday for an indefinite duration unless five fired teaching assistants are reinstated.

Stan Wong, president of the SFU students' council, read a copy of a letter and resolution drafted at an emergency meeting of the council Friday morning to a mass meeting of students at the noon hour.

NO CONDITIONS

The resolution asked the SFU board of governors to immediately and unconditionally reinstate the five teaching assistants. It said if the governors fail to do so, the council will call for immediate boycott action by the university's 4,200 students.

At the same time, the Simon Fraser Faculty Association urged the university's board of governors to reconsider the dismissals, which the teachers' group said should be made only on the basis of academic incompetence. The faculty association named a liaison committee to work with the student council on the matter.

Meanwhile, university presi-

Homecoming Cancelled By Powell

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adam Clayton Powell Friday called off his much-heralded return to Harlem Sunday because he feared his Negro followers would touch off rioting if he were arrested on a criminal warrant.

The free-wheeling, high-living Powell made the announcement at a news conference at his Bimini retreat in the Bahamas shortly after he made a secret flight to Miami to consult with lawyers.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Clay L. Shaw, wealthy retired business executive, Friday was ordered to stand trial on a charge of conspiring to murder President John Kennedy. The ruling followed a four-day preliminary hearing requested by District Attorney Jim Garrison.

A three-judge criminal District Court tribunal ruled unanimously that Garrison presented sufficient evidence to warrant a trial for Shaw.

The highlight of the hearing was Perry R. Russo's testimony that he heard Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie plotting in September, 1963, to assassinate Kennedy.

FRAUGHT WITH HEARSAY

The Warren commission report, which said Oswald acted alone in the assassination of Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963, was not admitted as evidence after Judge Bernard Bagert said it was "fraught with hearsay."

Shaw rugged and erect at 54, sat smoking impressively when the decision was announced. His lined face was haggard.

CALLING FANTASY

Shaw remains free on $10,000 bond. Garrison arrested him on murder conspiracy charges March 1. A decorated Second World War army major, Shaw retired in October, 1965, as managing director of the International Trade Mart here.

The decision came exactly one month after the first disclosure that Garrison was probing the Kennedy assassination. The prosecutor said he launched the investigation last October.

Shaw called Garrison's charge "fantastic," and denied knowing Oswald or having any part in a conspiracy. U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark said the FBI cleared Shaw of any link to the Kennedy assassination.

KNEW FERRIE

Defense lawyer William Wegmann said in final argument Friday "the only worthy thing of Russo's testimony is that he knew David Ferrie and feared his intelligence.... This man (Shaw) is entitled to have the stigma removed from him. What they've put in, what VOTAW, Tex. (UPI)—A 3-year-old girl who became curious about an abandoned well in her grandmother's back yard slipped and fell into the well Friday night and skidded 28 feet before coming wedged between the narrowing walls.

The girl, Teresa Fregia, survived the fall. Drilling equipment was summoned from Houston, about 72 miles away, to aid in rescue efforts.

The girl lives with her mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Davis, in a house next door to her grandmother, Mrs. Opal Alemeane.

Canadian Auto Workers

Parity Pay Target

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Walter Reuther, international president of the United Auto Workers, said Friday the UAW has a mandate to obtain wage parity this year for Canadian car workers with Americans.

"The Canadian auto worker works for the same company, does the same job, builds the same cars but gets less pay than his American brother," he said.

"He is going to get the same pay—it's that simple," Reuther told cheering delegates at the UAW's 12th international skilled-trades conference.

WONT SIGN

At a news conference, Reuther said the UAW will not sign 1967 contracts that do not include a guaranteed annual income, equal pay for Canadian workers and a substantial wage increase.

George Burt, Canadian director of 105,000 UAW members, said his workers receive 40 cents to $1 an hour less than American workers.

Assembly workers in Canadian plants of General Motors receive $2.70 an hour, he said in an interview, while GM assembly workers in the U.S. get $3.10 an hour.

Reuther

"But a Canadian shareholder of GM gets the same dividend as an American GM shareholder," Burt said. "There's no reason why the workers shouldn't get the same wages."

Canadian contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Nov. 15, two months after the American contracts lapse.

GOVERNMENT SIGNS

But Burt said there are "signs" the Canadian government will oppose wage parity.

He quoted Prime Minister Pearson as saying that parity for auto workers is not feasible and would seriously affect the Canadian economy.

Library Cleared No Bomb Found

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bomb scare Friday morning forced evacuation of more than 1,000 students and 225 faculty members from the University of B.C. Library. No bomb was found.

WASHINGTON (LAT)—President Johnson lowered his voice to a whisper in Nashville, Tenn., this week to say a few words about spy satellites and the echo has been reverberating through Washington since.

The president said that if the American space program during the past 10 years had cost 10 times more than the $30,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 invested, it would be worth it "simply for the photography."

"I don't want to be quoted on this," the president told an audience of southern educators in the cosy drawing room of Tennessee Governor Buford Ellington's mansion. He then proceeded to let the audience in on just how effective the American spy satellites have been.

"If we had no justification (for the space program) other than photography, it would be worth 10 times more," the president said.

"Before we had the photograph, our guesses were way off. We were doing things that we didn't need to do."

Because of the satellites, he said, "I know how many missiles the enemy has."

was saying that spy satellites had been successful beyond the experts' earlier hopes in pinpointing Soviet and Chinese military installations.

The president's remarks, though made to an audience of more than 125 persons from throughout the South, were immediately put off the record by White House press secretary George Christian. There were only a handful of reporters in the audience.

The remarks have since been published.

The digression about the space program came in a long, rambling, sentimental talk by the president.

No Car? Call a Knight

Recreation on Ballot Today

Saanich owner-electors today decide whether or not they want $1,250,000 worth of recreation facilities built in the municipality during the next five years.

There are 28,127 people who are eligible to cast ballots at 13 polling places which will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Mystic Knights Car Club is offering rides to the polls to anyone who doesn't have a car. People living west of Douglas Street should call 385-9487 and those east of Douglas may call 477-3722.

Here are the polling places: Cloverdale School, Quadra Street; Frank Hobbs School, Haro Road; Glanford School, Glanford Avenue; Gordon Head Elementary School, Kenmore Road; Lansdowne Junior Secondary School, Lansdowne Road; Store No. 7, Seaview Shopping Plaza, Cordova Bay.

Interest at High Level

If turnout at advance polls is an indication, interest is running fairly high in the Saanich recreation referendum, which will be decided today.

By Friday, 55 owner-electors had cast ballots. Advance polls were open between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

While the polls weren't swarming with voters, the turnout was much greater than the advance poll for the December municipal election.

Road: St. Joseph's Parish Hall, Burnside Road West; Mount View Secondary School, Carey Road; Prospect Lake Community Hall, Sparrow Road; Royal Oak Secondary School, West Saanich Road; St. Luke's Hall, Cedar Hill Cross Road; St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Hall, Obed Avenue and Tillicum School, Orillia Street.

The referendum, if adopted, would give council authority to borrow $300,000 during the five-year period between Nov. 1 this year and Oct. 31, 1972.

The remaining $300,000 would be raised in this manner: $38,000 from Saanich's 1967 budget, $100,000 from the sale of tax sale lands and $102,000 from a subsequent municipal budget.

The $350,000 debt would be retired over 20 years.

In addition to finding money for the capital costs, Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe has estimated that in the initial stages of operation the municipality probably will have to subsidize recreation centres to the extent of $50,000 a year.

The amount needed to finance the $350,000 loan would be about one mill, or $8 a year for someone now paying about $400 a year in general and school taxes.

Here are the four projects proposed in the referendum:

● A $470,000 swimming pool and community centre on the Lambriek Estate in the Gordon Head area. The largest single project in the proposal, it would include a 25-metre indoor swimming pool and a multi-purpose community building.

● A $420,000 ice arena in the Tillicum-Burnside area, which would be built on municipally-owned property. There would be a standard ice sheet of 200-by-85 and seating for 800 to 900 spectators.

● A $260,000 community centre on the McRae Estate, encompassing Cedar Hill golf course and nearby property. It would provide meeting rooms and hobby areas.

● A $100,000 senior citizens centre at Hampton Park, which would provide a small auditorium, lounge, meeting and activity rooms and a kitchen.

Colquitz Level Deadly Threat

By JOHN MATTERS

An entire generation of fish is in danger of dying because the water level of Colquitz Creek has suddenly been lowered.

Outdoorsmen and people living along the creek have been rescuing spawning cutthroat trout from shallow pools and placing them in deeper water, where they can lay their eggs.

Dr. Marc Bell, a University of Victoria biology professor, said Friday the trouble apparently was caused by the raising of a weir which controls flow from Beaver Lake into Colquitz.

Dr. Bell and Dr. E. M. Hagmeier, also on the biology staff, said it was regrettable the

are being dumped into it," said Mr. Colegrave.

One person living near the creek in the past two days has rescued seven spawners, another rescued 12 that were flapping around in small pools.

The fish were found in that portion of Colquitz just north of West Saanich Road.

The fish are a sea-going species that migrate to freshwater to spawn and after hatching return to saltwater, spending most of their adult life in the Gorge.

Mr. Colegrave said the tragedy is the creek at this time of the year is a favorite fishing spot for children.

QUICK DROP

"If the water had dropped off gradually, it would have given the fish a chance."

The Colquitz Creek system drains the southern part of the Saanich Peninsula, an area of more than 25 square miles, and has about 20 miles of waterways.

It is the largest system of its kind on the Saanich Peninsula and in previous years supported runs of thousands of cutthroat trout.

weir had to be raised, reducing the stream's volume at a time when the fish were spawning.

"It's unfortunate there just isn't a degree of understanding," said Dr. Bell.

Bruce Colegrave, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Conservation Society, an organization of 12 fish and wildlife clubs, said the cut-back in stream flow was "an atrocious thing."

GRAVEL BEDS

In addition to preventing cutthroat from spawning, the lack of water could kill eggs already in gravel beds.

"If the weir stays at that level, it means Colquitz could be dry all summer, except for the sewage and other wastes that

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce were given a glimpse into the future Friday — a future in which thousands of Oriental tourists, mainly Japanese, will spend holidays on Vancouver Island.

Sam Lane, who recently returned from a 34,000-mile trip around the world, said that there is a vast untapped tourist potential in southeast Asia as well as in Japan.

As it is, the hotel proprietor added, Japanese are coming to Canada but they are flying right over the Island to inland centres.

Mr. Lane admitted that such a condition might be many years in coming but come it would, he said, and business people on the Island should keep it clearly in view.

For this reason as well as others, Mr. Lane said, the Island needed a slogan. He suggested "Canada's Island in the Pacific."

GENERALLY FAVORED

The slogan had received approval in many quarters, Mr. Lane said, and he was recommending it, as was the tourist industry group of the chamber, for acceptance.

E. E. Pearlman had no quarrel with the slogan but thought members of the chamber should have an opportunity to think it over before being asked to adopt it. He recalled that other half-decisions in the past had had embarrassing results.

TREASURE DISASTER

"We had 'Treasure Island,' remember? It was a disaster," said president Courtney Haddock.

The question of tourists from the Pacific led to a discussion of the Victoria airport and its inability to accommodate jetliners.

RIGHT OVER

There was lots of Oriental tourist business, Mr. Lane repeated, but it was flying right over Vancouver Island.

Air Canada manager in Victoria, Stanton Mooney said that Victoria with its 6,000-foot runway, provided only marginal safety for jets.

TAKEOFF PROBLEMS

The could land here, he said, but found difficulty in taking off loaded. It was, furthermore, almost impossible to set up schedules.

Mr. Mooney had no doubt that the airport would be altered in the future and that jets would operate from Victoria but it might be well into the future, he said.

BETTER ROAD

George Farmer said the transportation and harbor group of the chamber had been working hard to have an improved access road built to the airport.

The federal government refused to assume any responsibility but an assurance had been received from Minister of Highways Gagliardi that the province would pay half the cost of construction. A letter has been sent to Mayor Hugh Stephen asking if he had any suggestions.

INDUSTRY IDEA

Civil affairs group chairman Clyde Savage said the co-operation of Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich had been obtained in the work of getting a new area industrial research commission started.

Drivers' Licences

No-Clutch Rule Being Lifted

British Columbia is doing away with the "automatic transmission only" restriction on drivers' licences.

A spokesman for the Motor Vehicles Branch said Friday the move follows studies which show accident rates are unaffected by drivers switching from standard to automatic transmissions, or vice-versa.

WENT FOR ALL

Previously, the restriction was applied to all drivers' licence-holders who passed their examinations using a car with an automatic transmission.

B.C.'s decision was based on findings in two or three areas of the United States. The surveys found that accidents were not caused by a driver's inability to distinguish floor pedals after driving an automatic.

"Studies have shown that accidents among people who switched from automatic to standard transmissions were generally unrelated to the switch-over," said the spokesman.

The B.C. Motor Vehicles Branch also based its decision on the fact that about 50 per cent of the cars sold today are automatics.

SWITCHES INCREASE

This means that the day-to-day switch-overs from automatics to standards is increasing.

Studies also have shown that the "next 30 minutes after changing from an automatic to standard car are the most dangerous."

NEW SKILLS

"However, this is not considered a serious problem because indications are the new skills are mastered quickly," said the spokesman.

The "automatic transmission only" restriction will still apply in a few cases, such as drivers with handicaps of the limbs.

Before Vietnam Seminar on Campus

Joan Too Tired for Reception

About a dozen amateur and professional critics and supporters of U.S. efforts in the Vietnam War arrived in Victoria Friday night for a weekend seminar. Others arrive this morning.

The seminar was preceded Friday night by an informal reception in the comfortable modern lounge of the University of Victoria's Student Union Building.

SHE FLEW

Among the main guests expected was pacifist-folk singer Joan Baez. However, she did not arrive.

A seminar spokesman said Miss Baez flew from Montreal to Vancouver Friday, where she lectured to University of B.C. students.

He said she was exhausted and had retired to bed.

LIBERAL MP

Among the participants in the seminar are Senator Henry Jackson, of Washington, a supporter of the U.S. position in Vietnam.

The Canadian government will be unofficially represented by Warren Allmand, Liberal MP for Montreal Notre Dame de Grace and a member of the Commons committee on external affairs.

Canada's participation in the conflict will be discussed by Professor Mordecai Eisenberg of the department of political science at Simon Fraser University.

A Canadian defender of the U.S. position in the war, Professor Laurence Evans of SFU's history department will talk on U.S. strategy and national interest in the Far East.

SAV VIETNAM

A 27-year-old Newark, N.J., community organizer and Rutgers University lecturer on government, Thomas Hayden, is billed as having spoken with North Vietnamese Premier Ho Chi Minh.

Mr. Hayden, who spent two weeks in North Vietnam early last year and spoke with various officials, in an interview Friday, said he had not met Ho Chi Minh but got a good overall impression of the North Vietnamese position during his stay.

Mr. Hayden entered Hanoi from China after visiting Moscow. He did not enter South Vietnam.

"The U.S. is lacking in a positive response to other countries' independence... their attitude is negative, sometimes predatory, sometimes violent," he said.

FIRST SESSION

"Canada is an American economic possession, and Australia, by participating, is being played for a sucker by the U.S.," Mr. Hayden said.

"The first session of the seminar begins at 10 a.m. today in Lansdowne junior high school. Sunday's session will be conducted in the University of Victoria's gymnasium.

Two day passes for non-students cost $2 and are available at the Student Union Building, Eaton's and Munro's Bookstore.

Cannon 'Toys' Mind-Warpers

By living in the past, Esquimalt council can be warping the minds of the children within the municipality. Voice of Women president Mrs. Dorcas Blair charged Friday.

She ripped apart council's idea of placing two First World War cannons in municipal playgrounds, saying that municipal leadership was showing a lack of imagination.

"They are tied to antiquity," she said. "The children don't even like these things."

EAGER TO PLEASE

"Sure, they will play on them, but only because they are tolerant and kindly, and eager to please adults."

She termed council's proposal to refurbish the cannon for children "unfortunate."

"This is not the kind of thinking we need in the future."

"Our children need constructive toys."

"They don't agree with this kind of thing, but they seem to like the attitude that if this is what the adults want of them, they will go along with it."

She agreed with council that the cannon are harmless.

PRETEND TO KILL

"Is this what we want them to think of as acceptable behavior?"

"We can warp their minds by encouraging them to play war games."
